Wright Calls for Zoning Law; Anglin Hits Clear Fork Costs

175 Open GOP City Campaign

Party Offers 10-Point Plan

Republican Mayoralty Candidate Thomas B. Wright advocated early enactment of a zoning ordinance as he opened his campaign before 175 persons at Liberty park last night.

"When a Mansfielder buys a home he should be entitled to know whether or not he is protected against the possibility of an undesirable structure being erected next door," Wright said. He added a building code would be considered later.

Wright broke into the municipal campaign with a 10-plank party platform that hits on such other city problems as sewer repair and traffic control.

The bulk of improvements promised by the platform are to be made with the advice of an active city planning commission made up of a cross-section of citizens. Wright said the commission would help his administration bring needed improvements to the city at the "lowest possible cost."

Wright rapped his opponent, Charles O. Anglin for his grandiose plans for spending the taxpayers' money."

Wright promised that if elected mayor he would "ride herd on every out-going dollar."

URGES SAVING NOW

"It costs money to run a city like ours, Wright said. "But we can in a good sound business way, save now and spend when prices go down."

The candidate emphasized the importance of bringing new and diversified industry into the city.

"A community tied to one type of business rises or falls with the prosperity of that business," he explained. He said Mansfield has been a stable city because "we are fortunate in having diversification of industry.

"Healthy communities require healthy industries," he said. "We want our industries to stay healthy, but we also want more jobs for Mansfielders by bringing more industry to our town."

He said the proposed planning commission should compile data on Mansfield's present resources and determine what is needed to make it more attractive to new industry.

He called for a long-range program to include such items as a practical solution to the park-

Flood Death Toll Mounts

GUATEMALA CITY — (INS) — Widespread floods—described by the government as "a national disaster"—were reported today to have caused at least 300 and possibly as high as 1,000 deaths in Guatemala.

Torrential rains pouring into the Central American republic's rich agricultural belt were said to have rendered tens of thousands of persons homeless.

The figure of 300 dead was set by President Juan Jose Arevalo, but the foreign office indicated the death toll might hit 1,000.

Dems Ask Cleaner Streets

An out-of-town engineering firm will collect more than $150,000 in fees for the Clear Fork water project, which points out the need for an enlarged city engineering department, Democratic Mayorality Candidate Charles O. Anglin said yesterday.

Speaking before 80 First and Second ward voters at Johnny Appleseed Junior High school, Anglin said:

"We've been sold a bill of goods on that Clear Fork project."

"A Columbus engineering firm came in here to do the engineering on that project on a percentage basis," Anglin said.

"The more the project cost, the more money the engineers get. The engineering fees will be from $150,000 to $20,000," Anglin declared.

"A city engineering department could have probably saved on that $2,500,000," he added.

"When the projected was started we were told it would cost from $800,000 to $1,000,000," Anglin said. Today, they say $2,500,000, and I wonder if that will be enough the way things are going," he added.

CITES RATE BOOST

"You're paying for the project with increased water rates," he told the crowd. The rates have been increased 50 per cent already, and who knows how much more they will be boosted before that project is paid off," he added.

"We'll be in debt on the project until 1972," Anglin said. "and we don't even need the water now."

Several evenings ago a city engineer told a group of residents of a suburb northwest of the city that Mansfield has plenty of water to supply them.

"And, Anglin said, "there hasn't been a drop of water taken from the Clear Fork reservoir."

Before unleashing his attack on the Clear Fork project, Anglin declared "The condition of Mansfield's downtown streets is a disgrace."

POINTS TO RUBBISH

"The streets are littered with dirt and paper, he said. "we had clean streets at one time and the public is entitled to that service now," he added.

The only reference Anglin made to his opponent, Republican Thomas B. Wright, was:

"Tom is a good boy; he may mean well, but he is mixed up with the wrong bunch this time. "Wright is under the thumb of the Republican organization and its boss," Anglin declared.

"The only way Mansfield can get a good government is to clean out the whole bunch and elect these men you see here tonight, Anglin said, pointing to the group of Democratic party candidates on the stage with him.

Other candidates spoke briefly at the rally.

Mrs. Howard Wenning, a candidate for the school board was invited to the platform and talked briefly.

Strict Rules Protested In School Strike

BOWLING GREEN —(AP)— Approximately 200 students cut classes today as classmates tried to incite a strike against regulations at Bowling Green State university.

W. J. Rohrs, campus police chief, reported the 200 were absent from their classrooms after an estimated 500 attended an early morning mass meeting.

The objectors in the student body of 4600 young men and women want, among other things:

Abolition of a rule which prohibits unmarried co-eds from riding in automobiles; 3.2 beer; "complete freedom of expression" for the campus newspaper, the Bee Gee News, and a less tough attitude by campus police.

Chest Hits $39,933— Up $10,000

Industrial 'B' In Lead

Mansfield's Community Chest continued on its way toward the 1949 goal of $141,663 today with a total of $39,933 subscribed, marking an increase of $10,000 reported since early Tuesday afternoon.

The leading division in the campaign continues to be Industrial "B", headed by Marshall R. Seybold and Roy Waxler who reported this morning that they are nearing the half-way mark in their solicitation. They have turned in a total of $16,065 on their goal of $36,530, nearly twice as much as that reported by their competitive team, Industrial "B", whose total to date is $8,870.

The women's division of the drive, headed by Mrs. C. H. Guy and Mrs. Ralph Z. Sorenson also marked up a substantial increase toward their goal of $11,500 by reporting a total of $4,228 already subscribed.

Charles Robertson's professional division continued to report steady gains toward their goal of $6,925. By noon today this division had turned in pledge cards totaling $2,094. James R. McConnell drive chairman said.

Steel, Coal Talks Fail

Mediators Balked In Discussions

(By Associated Press)

Government mediators kept trying today to pave the way for peace in the coal and steel strikes but they did not appear very hopeful.

The mediators have been balked in every attempt to settle the strikes, the country's major labor disputes, which have made idle some 1,000,000 workers. Continuation of the strikes threaten to seriously curtail industrial production and make idle several hundred thousand other workers.

There were indications that if no headway is made soon the mediators will turn the disputes over to President Truman. However, there was no word that Mr. Truman would step in although he could use a Taft-Hartley court injunction or industry seizure to get the strikers back to work.

Cyrus H. Ching, chief government mediator, went to New York today to talk with officials of the U. S. Steel corporation.

The negotiations between soft coal operators and officials of the United Mine Workers remained deadlocked. There was no progress at yesterday's talks at White Sulphur Springs and Bluefield, W. Va., or any indication of an early settlement of the month-old strike of some 400,000 miners.

Ching said in Washington he is going to re-enter the coal negotiations this week unless there is some sign of early settlement.

Deficit Spending Draws Sharp Attack

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A complaint by economist Edwin G. Nourse against what he called the government's failure to put "its fiscal house in order" drew both criticism and praise in Congress today.

This statement by the retiring chairman of President Truman's Economic Advisory council was labeled by Senator O'Mahoney (D.-Wyo.) as "a political argument" against deficit spending

On the other hand, Senator Watkins (R.-Utah) said Nourse is the only member of the three-man council who has followed a "purely professional course."

High government officials say Nourse in effect has told Mr. Truman he is quitting Nov. 1 whether his resignation is accepted or not.

Against that background Nourse made a speech yesterday before the National Retail Farm Equipment association. Implying criticism of administration policies, he said:

"I am uneasy when I see farmers demanding stimulative prices whilst government accumulates gigantic surplus holdings, pays subsidies out of federal deficits and imposes production allotments and marketing quotas.

"I am not happy when I see government slipping back into deficits as a way of life, instead of putting its fiscal house in order and husbanding reserves to support the economy if less prosperous times should overtake us."

NEW YORK — (AP) — Herbert Hoover kept an audience laughing for seven minutes last night by telling them why he couldn't get in the headlines.

He and Gen. George C. Marshall were at a New York Board of Trade dinner to receive gold plaques for "distinguished contributions to the American way."

Mr. Hoover started off by saying he had searched for a topic that would make page one —the "real test" of whether he had justified the award.

Mr. Hoover then said it ought to shock the world if he said something about balancing the budget.

"But this hasn't clicked in the headlines for the last 18 years," said the ex-President.

Then he said he could give a financial lecture on why foreign loans never would be repaid.

"But that hasn't been news since the first world war," he said.

After saying that President Truman's "point four" plan to aid backward nations would mean quadruple, not just double taxation, Mr. Hoover said none of the topics would do. Then he expressed his thanks for the award and sat down.

Youth, 18, Confesses To Murder

Slugged, Shot Foster-Mother

An 18-year-old youth, reportedly adopted from the Richland county Children's Home when almost three, told police today how he slugged and then shot his foster-mother to death in her Cleveland suburb home yesterday "because I always wanted to drive her car and she would never let me."

James Nairy said he shot his mother, Mrs. Iva Nairy, 56, in the back yard of their home in fashionable Fairview Park and then took her car and started for Texas.

The mother, a Cleveland bookkeeper and wife of John Marshall high school English teacher, Louis J. Nairy, was found dying in the backyard of her home shortly before noon yesterday, four .22 calibre pistol wounds in her back and one in her right side.

Nairy was captured by Deputy Sheriff Walter Piotraschke in a St. Louis, Mo. suburb early today on teletype information, supplied by Ohio authorities. The youth was on probation for car theft and was not permitted to drive by the court. He was also listed as an "uncorrigible runaway."

In his confession of the slaying to St. Louis police Nairy said he came back to Fairview Park Monday after a brief visit to Texas and wanted the car to return there. He said the gun, used to shoot his mother, was taken from a friend's home in Corpus Christi, Texas.

"Mother wouldn't give me the

Members' Powers Limited

Commission Will Frame Charter

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles about the proposed for a council-manager form of government which will be submitted to Mansfield voters in November.

BY GAYLORD HAKE

The names of 30 candidates for a charter commission will appear on the November ballot. The power of the charter commission is confined to writing the charter. Members have no part in the selection of a city manager, or in the selection of any other officers in the government.

The charter commissioners serve without pay and when the job is completed, the commission is disbanded.

And, the charter commissioners do not have the final say in what kind of a charter the city will have.

The law provides a copy of the charter must be in the hands of every registered voter and then a vote held on the charter.

The members of the charter commission are under oath to frame a charter, but there is no provision as to the type of charter it will be.

The ballot that will be handed to every voter at the Nov. 8 election bears the proposal "Shall a Commission be Chosen to Frame a Charter?" There is a "yes" or "no" vote on the proposal. If the voter favors the a charter, he proceeds to check the names of 15 charter commission candidates listed on the ballot.

If the charter is approved, the 15 candidates receiving the largest number of votes comprise the charter commission. If the proposal is defeated the charter commission is not formed.

If the charter proposal is successful the charter commission will have one year to draft a charter that meets with the approval of Mansfield's voters.

They will use a models, the charters of other successful charter cities. The candidates of the Citizens' Committee for Council-Manager plan have announced if they are elected public meetings will be held where Mansfielders can discuss the provisions that will be written into the charter.

The powers of the charter commission cease with the writing of the charter. The members hold no political office nor do they have any say in who is appointed to any office.

In a council-manager system, te city council selects the manager and has the power to dismiss him

However, in most charters, and by the strength of a national organization of city managers, a manager would be given three months notice before being dismissed, and he is entitled to an open public hearing on his dismissal.

Huge Pep Rally Tonight

Bonfire To Follow Double-Header

Enthusiasm-laden pep bombs have been exploding all over Mansfield this week as Senior high school students are laying the groundwork for a spirited invasion of Massillon Friday night.

The biggest bang of all is scheduled for Arlin field tonight when the students stage a big bon-fire immediately following the football double-header. Johnny Appleseed battles the Madison reserves at 7 p. m. with John Simpson meeting the Bellville reserves at 8:30.

Bands of the two junior highs will play at the games and then the crack Marching Tygers will take over to play spirited music at the big pep rally.

Guests of honor at the bonfire will be the members of the Senior high school football team which plays the state champions from Washington high in Massillon Friday in the BIGGEST game in Ohio. Capt. A. C. Jenkins and Coach Augie Morningstar will make short talks at the rally.

For the past two days the enthusiastic Tyger student body has paraded the town in automobile caravans with horns blowing, bells clanging, and always the chant, "Mansfield Beat Massillon." Last night a dozen or so bandsmen in a big yellow truck made serenade stops at the homes of the players and coaches.

The truck and a following fleet of gaily bedecked automobiles carried the schools colors and placards with the theme, "Beat Massillon."

That slogan has been painted on streets, sidewalks, windows, and sides of buildings. Students are wearing tags which say, "Stop Crable, Johnson, James and Jacobs." Those four boys are the Washington high backfield.

Farm Bill Due For Passage

Little Discord Seen In Action

WASHINGTON—Congress, with an almost clean slate, rushed today toward a scheduled nightfall adjustment it should have reached two and one-half months ago.

Of all the ponderous issues which plagued the first session of the 81st Congress, only the compromise farm bill, two presidential nominations and tag-end appropriations remained as major items to be approved.

Democratic leaders said there was no adjournment - delaying fight in any one of them.

With the House due to vote first, passage of the bitterly-won farm compromise measure seemed certain before the wind-up of this session of Congress.

The bill would permit reductions in price supports for all but a few major commodities next year. However, it gives the Agriculture department a choice between such action and maintenance of present support standards. In some cases, the actual supports would be higher than they are now.

Majority Leader Lucas (D) Ill., announced that the Senate would hold a night meeting "if necessary" to end this session tonight.

Under the congressional reorganization law, Congress should have completed its work and gone home on July 31.

LOG JAM BROKEN

The Senate's logjam broke suddenly Tuesday when that body postponed until next January 20 action on the compromise "basing point" bill.

This was accompanied by a House-Senate conference agreement on the compromise farm bill calling for 80 to 90 percent price supports.

Before most members knew what was happening, the Senate banged through and sent to the White House the 75-cent minimum wage bill, the 15½ billion dollar military appropriations bill, the rural telephone loan - development bill, legislation implementing the wheat agreement and a score of routine measures on its calendar.

Today, the scheduled finale of a session which began 41 weeks ago, the House was set to accept the farm compromise and speed it to the Senate for adoption there. Prompt approval was slated, too, on a bill to expedite the newly-disclosed atomic plant expansion program.

A quick agreement was forecast in conference on the supplemental appropriation bill carrying the $1,314,010,000 in cash and contract authority for the arms-aid program.

14 Floats Readied

Sixteen floats already have been promised for the Halloween parade, Oct. 29, members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce announced today.

The Jaycees are backing the parade in the annual "Help Hunt Halloween" celebration sponsored by Mrs. Ada Hunt Doerr.

The Eagles lodge has promised two floats for the parade. Other Mansfield Organizations which will sponsor floats include Nash Motor Sales, the YMCA, Sowash Brothers, Honeggger-Hanley Mills, Weidner Pontiac company; Borden's dairy, Brandenburg Chevrolet company, R. E. Moorhead, Inc., Allen Knapp Heating company, Ohio Public Service company, Terman Motors, Willys and Jeep Sales and Service, Colby and Earick Inc., and Westinghouse Electric corporation.

Any other organization wishing to enter a float in the parade should call Richard Sowash at 1670-6 or contact any Jaycee member.

The parade will begin at 7:30 p. m. Oct. 29 with the line of march forming at 7 p. m. on West Third Street between Mulberry and Bowman streets.

Masked revelers, bands, and decorated wagons and floats will parade through the downtown area past the reviewing stand on the south side of Central park.

The judging committee, consisting of Louis Them, Richard Mumford, and T. M. Zerby, will be assisted by members of the Mansfield Boy Scouts.

Following the parade Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will sponsor a street dance. The dance will be held at the A. B. Grafton parking lot, Park avenue west and Mulberry street, beginning at about 9 p. m.

City Sunny, West Suffers

Cold Snap Grips Coast; Winds In East

Bright sunshine and blue skies today helped Mansfield and the rest of the state ignore the weather situation along the east and west coasts, where snow, rain, sleet and a 75-mile an hour hurricane were top news of the day.

A severe cold snap whistled over the western states, blocking highways under snowdrifts and endangering crops. Weather forecasters at Los Angeles said it was the earliest cold snap to hit southern California in 30 seasons as temperatures plummeted to 28 degrees in some localities.

Along the north Atlantic seaboard a hurricane with 75-mile-an-hour wind thundered toward Nova Scotia, and all coastal shipping was warned to take shelter from the storm, reported to be the worst in a series of storms whipping the area from America to Britain.

Meanwhile, the midwest enjoyed the revival of summer as temperatures soared to a high of 74 in Chesapeake, with Mansfield reporting a 69-degree high yesterday. Today's readings were expected to top Tuesday's mark with a high of 75 expected here, and a drop to around 50 predicted for tonight.

The lowest reading in Mansfield this morning was 43.

Ohio Forecaster Milton Davis said yesterday's temperatures averaged about eight degrees above normal, but pointed out the drop to the low 40's this morning will keep today's average down.

Some scattered light frost was reported in northern sections of the state, while downstate points were covered by varying degrees of ground fog, which dissipated as the sun came up.

No change is predicted in the current weather until Thursday when some scattered showers are predicted for the west portion of the state.

Defends Air Force B-36

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg said today that if the United States cuts down on strategic bombing strength, then Russia will be free to concentrate on developing offensive power.

Vandenberg, the air force chief of staff, was before the House armed services committee defending the air force policy of building up a B-36 bomber fleet against navy criticism.

Such a policy shift as this, Vandenberg said, would mean:

1. "We would give up the deterrent value of this nation's atomic weapons and we would place ourselves in disagreement with all of those people who, on both sides of the ocean, believe that Soviet aggression is in fact now being deterred.

2. "We would inform the Russians that they need now take no defensive measures against a possible atomic attack on their heartland.

3. "If war is forced on us, this proposal deprives us of the opportunity of choking off enemy warmaking power at its source."

2nd Polio Case Found In City

Mansfield's second polio case this year and the third in Richland county was reported Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, 41, of 305 Forest drive, was sent yesterday to City hospital in Cleveland for treatment, according to Dr. Harry Wain, city-county health commissioner.

Her condition has not been determined as yet, Dr. Wain reported.

The third case of polio was reported near the end of the usual infantile paralysis season. The malady usually eases off with the arrival of cool weather.

BUCYRUS — The United States is truly a wonderful country, even more amazing than it appears in Hollywood movies, according to a 73-year-old Englishman, Thomas Boyle, who is visiting here with a brother Lawrence, and his family

"There's only one word to describe the United States and that word is 'amazing,'" declared Boyle as he discussed his first visit to this country with his younger brother, whom he had not seen for 27 years.

Arriving in New York City aboard the USS America on Oct 7, Boyle spent a week there, where he was thrilled by television, sleek, shiny automobiles with radios and heaters and the huge quantities of food and clothing on sale

A resident of Consett in Durham county England, Boyle visited a son Brother Ralph Sherman a Christian Brother in a London monastery before sailing for America From New York he took a plane to Columbus, where he was met by a brother, Patrick of Pittsburgh and a niece, Mrs Bill Hubble of Columbus

Medals of Our Lady of Lourdes were brought by Boyle from a sister in Consett for the local relatives

Only adverse criticism Boyle had to make of the American way of life after two weeks here was that "you Americans ride too much—there's nothing like fast, healthy walks to keep one in top-notch shape."

And Boyle should know In his younger days, he was a champion walker in foot races, winning three trophies His peak performance was walking 20 miles in two hours and 45 minutes

The Mohawk grappler is believed to have set a new record by pinning Fred Von Schacht in four seconds for the second fall in their match last night in Cleveland.

Eagle used his scalp hold to take the final fall and the match from Von Schacht.

Speaking at a dinner in Buffalo yesterday the former Notre Dame coach and member of the four horsemen told the two leagues to "get together or commit financial suicide."

Minnesota Favored In Big Clash

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(INS)—It will take a shot in the arm or a mighty inspired Michigan eleven to stave off a third licking in a row when the Wolverines tackle unbeaten Minnesota at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Since the needle is out, Michigan will have to depend on the wizardy of Coach Benny Oosterbaan and a great improvement in its passing attack to keep in the "Big Nine" championship race.

The famed Wolverines, who had won 25 games in a row, virtually went to pieces after that 21-to-7 beating from Army two weeks ago. Last Saturday's 21-to-20 defeat by Northwestern could easily have been the last straw that broke the "Maize and Blue's" vaunted invincibility.

Michigan has not lost three successive games since 1937 and there is no doubt that Oosterbaan will resort to every trick in the bag to avert that disaster.

But Bernie Bierman's Gophers, who humbled Ohio State, 27 to 0, last week, are on the high road to the Rose Bowl. Fumbling, stumbling Michigan will need more than coaching magic, to stop them.

It's the biggest test Oosterbaan has had to meet since he took over from Fritz Crisler, Michigan's athletic director, a year and a half ago. As far as it could be learned he has not called upon his predecessor for help. Crisler's comment in Michigan's hour of need was:

"Benny has enough troubles without having me around."

MENDING FENCES

Oosterbaan apparently is not expecting the impossible from his battered eleven. He is mending fences wherever he can, particularly in the pass receiving department.

But one of Benny's own scouts laid the groundwork for a deep pessimism when he watched Minnesota roll over Ohio and then reported:

"It's a typical Gopher outfit. They don't fool you, they just run over you."

Loss To Irish Costs Money

NEW ORLEANS, — (INS) — Tulane's loss to Notre Dame might have cost the team $150,000 in cold cash, in addition to hurt pride.

William Keefe, sports editor of the Times-Picayune, wrote today that the Irish victory may have lost Tulane $100,000 that may go glibbering because of the loss of a sugar or cotton bowl bid, $50,000 in the probable loss of revenue from regular attendance affected by the one-sided drubbing."

He said it was likely that the Tulane-Notre Dame series would end after next year's meeting in New Orleans.

Man-In-Motion Makes T Click

BY JIM BECKER
(AP Sports Writer)

More than 75 per cent of the college and pro football teams use the T formation as the basis of their offense.

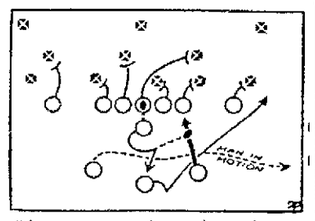
Many of these teams have added variations to the Basic T. Two of the most widely used of these variations are the "Split T" and the "Winged T."

Your enjoyment of football games, broadcasts and reports will be increased if you understand the rudiments of the winged, split and plain T. This series will attempt to explain them.

The modern T formation is the creation of Clark Shaughnessy, famed coach, George Halas, owner and mentor of the Chicago Bears and Ralph Jones, coach of obscure Lake Forest College. Actually, it is only an improvement on the formation used around the turn of the century. In those days, three linemen were posted on either side of the center, a quarterback right behind the center and the other three backs in a row about five yards back of the line.

It was almost impossible to run to the outside from this setup, however, so coaches began experimenting with flankers. That is, they posted one of the backs outside the end so he could block and clear the way for a play around end.

This led to the single and double wing formations, the inventions of Glenn (Pop) Warner. Four men were stationed to one side of the center, two on the other is what is known as an unbalanced line, creating a "strong" and a "weak" side.



Diagrammed here is a basic line plunge from the man-in-motion T. Left halfback runs out to right before ball is snapped to spread defense. Quarterback takes ball, spins, hands to right half who drives through hole over tackle, then quarterback drifts back and fakes to fullback who runs off end. On succeeding plays, quarter can fake to half and give to fullback, or pitch out to man in motion.

The T formation came back when the three coaches devised the man in motion and perfected the counter-attack or reverse. The line was balanced again and the backs resumed their original alignment.

Coaches who teach the T maintain that the man in motion — one back leaves his position and runs out to the side before the ball is snapped — is more valuable than his predecessor, the flanker, because he can do more things. He can charge down the field to catch passes, can take a flat pass, or can block the opposing end in on an end run.

Because of this, the defense must send at least one man to cover him as he runs, which splits the defense and makes running up the middle that much easier.

He also creates a strong side which helps on power plays. But because he runs out just before the ball is snapped, the defense can have no fixed line up against this power. The man in motion also served as a decoy on counter plays to the weak side.

Deception is the best weapon of the T. The quarterback takes the ball from center and fakes or hands the ball to the backs as they run by. T formation advocates point out it is just as effective to fake a man out of a play as it is to block him out.

Norman (Red) Strader, coach of the professional Brooklyn-New York Yankees and student of the T, explains the advantages of the straight T this way:

"We find speed the most important advantage of the T," he says. "We can strike faster and we are equally distributed left and right for fast thrusts. This means the defense can't overshift to meet us.

"In addition, we can use three good ball carriers. This spreads the work around and conserves manpower. No one gets killed.

"Blocking is easier to teach and learn. T teams use the high block where we bump a man out of the play instead of knocking him down. This leaves the blocker on his feet so he can get downfield and hit somebody else.

And because the blocking in the line is high, the quarterback's manipulations with the ball are hidden from the defense and deception is aided.

"Since we don't have to spend so much time on fundamentals we can work harder on learning the formation and perfecting timing.

"And we also find it's easier to protect the passer from the T."

took over only once in the second half."

Leahy said coaches generally are concentrating on offensive play and ackowledged he himself worked "overtime on the scoring department."

Frnka of Tulane dessented. "I don't think the two-platoon system can account for high football scores," he said. "neither do I think reserves, trying to make a good showing, can be the reason.

"Large scores usually result from the ability of the winner to get there fustest with the mostest, to use Nathan Bedford Forrest's analysis of victory on the battlefield."

Blaik, whose Army forces stormed over Harvard last week 54-14, agreed with Frnka that the platoon system couldn't be credited with the point-making splurge.

"All the proof you need of that is that Notre Dame doesn't use it," he said. "The only reason for these big scores, in my opinion, is that the teams beaten were not as good as they were supposed to be."

No Bowl Game

CLEVELAND —(UP)— There will be no Great Lakes Bowl football game here this year because of "economic conditions and the unpredictable weather."

Asking Waivers

BOSTON — (AP) — The Boston Celtics have asked waivers from other national basketball association clubs on Les Pugh, former Ohio State Star.

Fesler Shifts Ohio State Lineup To Plug Defense

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Coach Wesley Fesler juggled his Ohio State defensive lineup today in an effort to plug injury-ridden gaps and hit upon the right combination to stop an expected heavy Badger ground attack in the Wisconsin game in Madison this Saturday.

Three Buckeye changes in the first-string eleven will have Jimmy Clark at the safety spot, and Jim Thomas and George Mattey at defensive guards.

Clark will be replacing injured Vic Janowicz of Elyria. Janowicz suffered an ankle separation in the Southern California contest and treatment has failed to respond as expected.

The new guards, both of whom played effectively during the second half of last Saturday's Minnesota game, are the heavy, tank-type. Mattey is a five foot ten inch, 221 pound senior while Thomas is a five-five 200-pound junior.

Defensive Ohio halfbacks, Fesler says, probably will be Dick Widdoes at right with Billy Newell in the left flat.

The linebacking jobs are the big Saturday problem of Fesler. Regular fullback Pete Perini was injured in the Gopher game along with centers Jack Lininger and Bob McCullough.

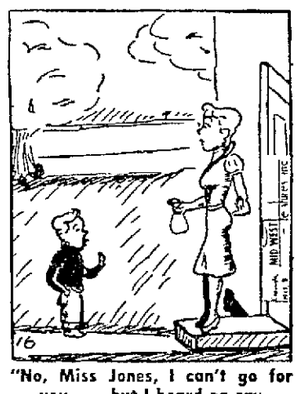
Third string sophomore center Bob Yeid may start at the passpitching post while 172-pound George Wertz may get the nod for the other line-backing position. Both men run to medium sizes for jobs that could use plenty of bulk.

The Buck starting defense squad yesterday sharpened its strategy by opposing a freshman team using Wisconsin plays.

Ohio's junior Jay-Vees also put in a thorough practice session in preparation for their game against their Badger equals this Friday.

Play At Arena

CLEVELAND — (AP) —The Blue Streaks of John Carroll university will play 14 basketball games at the arena this winter. Thirteen of them will be part of doubleheaders in which some of the nation's out-standing collegiate cage teams will compete for Cleveland fans.



"No, Miss Jones, I can't go for you . . . but I heard pa say he sure could."

Housing Still Short

The question of rent decontrol in Mansfield and elsewhere continues to be a question of the supply of housing, W H McClellan, Mansfield branch rent office representative reported today And the supply here is still short, he added

Returning from a regional housing expediters meeting in Cleveland, he stated that in a conference with Tighe E Woods national housing expediter, he was told the ending of rent control in a community on the initiative of the national housing expediter need not be expected until a ratio of supply and demand in housing exists

In Mansfield, the supply is considerably less than the demand, McClellan declared However, he continued, it is not any more serious than any other city in its population class

"In any industrial area like Mansfield one will find a shortage of housing" he explained

Tenants also must have an opportunity to exercise normal ability to bargain for shelter, in price ranges consistent with their monthly income he stated

McClellan added that Woods urged him to continue every effort here to make available to both tenants and landlords all their rights under the 1949 rent law

Finds No Trace Of Poisoning

The death of Harry Clark 49 year-old transient who died at General hospital early Monday after complaining to police that he had eaten poisoned food, resulted from natural causes, Coroner D C Lavender said Tuesday

Dr Lavender said Clark had escaped from the Massillon state mental hospital Oct 13 and had been living in a hobo camp near Mansfield The coroner said Clark evidently ate something in the camp that didn't agree with him and caused him to hemorrhage Dr Lavender said the condition was not caused by poisoning but from either ulcers or cancer of the stomach

Police took Clark to the hospital shortly after noon Sunday when they found him lying in the yard of the Ideal Electric company Clark had asked for a glass of water shortly before at an East First street home

An autopsy was held after the man's death yesterday at General hospital The body has been removed to his home in Williamsfield, Ashtabula county.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Contest Set To Pick City's Healthiest, Prettiest Babies

Although the beauty contest season was officially closed with the selection of Miss America at Atlantic City last month, Mansfield is scheduled to have a beauty contest next month—this one to select the two healthiest and most beautiful babies of the city.

The contest which is being sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, 3494, will be open to all boys and girls of the city under five years of age.

Registration for the contest, will be held Saturday from 9:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., and Monday from 12, noon, until 9 p. m. in the Infant's Department at the R. B. Maxwell company.

Special gifts will be awarded to the first 25 youngsters registered, it was announced by Bettye Breckenridge, who will direct the contest, and Mrs. Virgil Hartman, president of the auxiliary, who is serving as chairman of the event. No entries will be accepted by telephone, but the babies need not be present for the registration.

Each of the contestants will receive a free health examination and all babies who are declared physically sound will be presented with health certificates, special diplomas and Gold Seal awards, Mrs. Hartman said.

The prettiest girl and handsomest boy will be chosen from six age groups, and first prize winners in the groups will compete for the title of "Miss Mansfield" and "Master Mansfield" at the "Fairyland Coronation Pageant" on Nov. 21 at Johnny Appleseed auditorium.

In addition to the two first prize winners, there will be selections for king, queen, prince and princess from the various age classes. Awards will include loving cups, trophies, royalty certificates and special awards.

A number of youthful Mansfield dancers will present a program during the coronation ceremonies, Mrs. Hartman said.

Judging will be based on hair, eyes, personality, complexion and physical form, Miss Breckrevealed.

Youth Held In Slaying

car but we didn't argue about it," he said.

"I came up behind her and hit her with the butt of my gun. She cried out: 'What are you doing?'"

"Then she wrestled with me, trying to get the gun. We both fell to the floor. She got up and started running out the back door to a neighbor's house.

"I didn't think," he said, "I just started shooting. I think I emptied the gun at her. She fell in the yard and I got in her car and started for Texas."

Nairy said that he did not know whether his mother was dead when he left the house.

"She treated me nice," he said, "I hoped she wasn't. I feel pretty rotten about it."

With Nairy when he was arrested was Charles Anderson, 30, a Georgia hitchhiker whom the youth picked up about 70 miles from his home.

Cleveland authorities said that Nairy, an adopted child, had been forbidden by court order to drive after he "borrowed" a neighbor's auto without consent.

His father sobbed: "I never want to see him again. He told reporters that his wife had always helped the boy. Young Nairy was described as having a violent temper and his father said that he "took it out on her."

The youth was jailed pending notification of Ohio authorities.

Piotraschke said that he spotted the car by the license number and followed it with his siren on. He said that Nairy and his companion got out of the car as he pulled up behind and offered no resistance.

"Where's the gun?" Piotraschke asked.

"On the floor of the car," Nairy replied. The weapon, fully loaded, was found on the driver's side as was Mrs. Nairy's purse, containing $22.

Blaze Destroys Auto

Deputies said the blaze started in the motor of the car. Volunteer firemen from Little Washington were called but were unable to save the auto.

Ancient Samaritan Synagogue Excavated In War-Torn Land

JERUSALEM — (AP) — The archeological remains of the oldest known Samaritan synagogue in the Holy Land have just been excavated by Prof. Elieser Sukenik of the Jerusalem Hebrew university near the village of Salbit between the Judean mountains and the Mediterranean coast.

On the newly drawn political map of Palestine Salbit is situated near the borderline of Israel and Arab-held territory, just as the last Samaritans in Palestine today are kind of racial and religious borderline.

The 17½ by eight meter synagogue, built in the fourth century A. D., contains a mosaic floor with Biblical quotations in Samaritan Hebrew script and in Greek, Prof. Sukenik said in an interview.

Inlaid in the floor also is a seven-branched Jewish candlestick flanking a mountain—probably Mt. Gerizim near Nablus (the Biblical Sichem) on the top of which the Samaritans are supposed to have built thier holy temple 2,500 years ago.

The Salbit synagogue, orientated toward Mt. Gerizim, is now regarded as the oldest known archeological proof for the great historic past of this ancient sect, not of Israelite origin but of a very orthodox Hebrew faith.

The first pointers which led to the important discovery in the Salbit area near Latrun (the Biblical valley of Aijalon came from Israeli soldiers who fought one of the bigger battles of the Arab-Jewish war there.

Although the war is not officially over and Arab legion troops of King Abdullah's Hashemite Jordan are facing Jewish guards near the historic site, the present armistice, honored by all concerned, has allowed the diggings to be carried out.

UMW Reaches Accord With Diamond Alkali, Gas Famine Ends

Union Will Cast Votes On Decision

14-Day Strike Draws To Close

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Negotiators reached an agreement early today on a 14-day strike at the Diamond Akali company of Fairport.

The more than 2,000 striking United Mine Workers will go back to work immediately if they accept the settlement in a vote later today, union representatives said.

For the public, the greatest inconvenience of the walkout was the halt in the operation of Diamond's coke plant. It supplied gas to three firms.

Two of them—the Lake County Gas company and the Painesville Municipal firm—have been unable to pipe any gas to some 8,000 Lake county homes since the strike started. The third, Lake Shore Gas company was using emergency equipment.

Terms of the agreement, reached in conference with federal conciliators, were:

Workers shall receive paid holidays on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's. Local 12-231, District 50, UMW, had asked for six paid holidays.

A five cents an hour raise.

The contract will run until July 22, 1950.

Before the settlement, the company announced it would have gas for cooking purposes flowing to the shut off homes by tomorrow night by using non - union personnel in the coke plant.

The settlement, it was announced, will not alter that estimate.

Stephen P. Adams, president of the union local, and John Mantz, industrial relations director for the company, headed negotiations.

Adams said that if the rank and file fails to approve the agreement, talks will have to start all over again.

German General Doubts That 'Red' Wehrmact Army Exists

MUNICH — (AP) — A German general just returned as a prisoner from Russia says he does not believe the Von Paulus army of Wehrmacht veterans exists today.

However, Field Marshal Friedrich Von Paulus, German commander at Stalingrad, did command a pro-communist army in Russia shortly after the war, says Major General Ludwig Cramolini.

Cramolini says this army was recruited from among German prisoners of war held by the Soviets. A prisoner of the Russians for three years, General Cramolini says he believes about 160,000 German prisoners of war still are held in the Soviet Union.

For General Cramolini the war ended in 1942. He was commander of the military district of Leipzig. Relieved of his command in 1942, he remained in Eastern Germany. The Russians nabbed him there in 1946.

"I was taken to Camp Muehlberg, a Russian concentration camp in Saxony," he relates. About 12,000 Germans, including 1,100 women, and many other foreign nationals were there.

"Then I was sent to camp 7093 at Woikawa, Russia, a distance of about 180 miles from Moscow, where I met 250 other generals of the German army.

"The Russians treated us very well. The food was good and we were permitted to buy things outside the camp. A German film was shown to us each week."

Cramolini said the German generals cultivated their own garden. But a company of enlisted men cleaned the camp for the generals.

He said he was permitted to read East German newspapers. "But we were never forced to become communists."

SHOW FILM SUNDAY

SHENANDOAH — A religious sound film, "Reaching From Heaven", will be shown at 8 p. m., Sunday in the Christian church here.

Hillyer To Speak At Poetry Day

A number of Mansfield Poetry Guild members are expected to attend the observance of Ohio Poetry Day in Columbus this Friday.

The observance, held in cooperation with the Department of Education, will feature the address of Robert Hillyer, Harvard professor, Pulitzer prize winner and president of the Poetry Society of America.

Hillyer will be guest speaker at a banquet to be held at 6:30 p. m. at the Southern hotel in Columbus. Helen Loomis Linham, of Mansfield, is Richland county chairman of the Ohio Poetry Society.

Basing Point Bill Delayed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Final congressional action has been put off until next year on a bill to legalize the so-called basing point pricing system.

The Senate decided yesterday to delay a vote on the measure —a house-approved compromise between differing versions previously passed by each chamber—until Congress meets again next January.

The bill ran into strong opposition in the Senate and the lengthy debate which resulted threatened to interfere with adjournment plans.

Learn About 'Goodwill Industries'

STEPS TOWARD adding Mansfield to the cities in which an activity known as Goodwill Industries devotes attention to providing employment for physically handicapped persons are timely and commendable.

Explanation of the plan and purpose of Goodwill Industries is to be given at a meeting announced for Friday at 3 p. m. at D. A. V. headquarters, 102½ North Walnut street, with Dr. Frank M. Baker, director of the Cleveland Goodwill Industries, as the speaker.

While much emphasis has been placed on employment of the physically handicapped, such matters as vocational training and adjustment to jobs require the special attention given by Goodwill Industries, in which the program is adapted to local needs.

This idea, as does so many, started in a small way about fifty years ago in Boston, and has now spread across the nation with such success as to gain much attention and support.

Approximately one hundred units are now operating in the United States and similar enterprises are being operated in Canada and several other countries.

A record of accomplishments in other cities serves as high recommendation of this organized effort to provide employment for persons who are placed at a disadvantage by some physical handicap but who are able and willing to do any kind of necessary work to which they are suited, or for which they can be trained.

A group of representative Mansfielders is taking the initiative in presenting this subject for consideration and action here. It deserves encouragement.

Why Not 'Solicit' Yourself?

IF no one has asked you to pledge to the Mansfield Community Chest, then you have a special opportunity to help the Red Feather agencies. Appoint yourself a volunteer worker! Solicit yourself and write your pledge to Community Chest headquarters, 99 Park avenue west, or phone it to 4181-6.

When fixing the amount you want to give remember this: Your contribution goes to provide wholesome surroundings for youth, it helps the aged and the unfortunate, and it must work for 12 full months.

So make your pledge substantial, and make it quickly.

Modernizing City Government

FOUR Massachusetts cities this fall are embarking on a new venture. They will hold their first election under the new council-manager form of government. By this the voters choose a small council, which in turn selects a city manager. He is a non-political expert, who runs the city. There may be a mayor, but he has nothing to do except attend banquets and welcome distinguished visitors.

This system cuts out the old handshaking type of office-seeker, often half demagogue and half boss. These four cities, Lawrence, Medford, Revere and Worcester, being all neighbors of Boston, have had ample opportunity to watch the shadiness of Boston politics, to say nothing of their own on occasion. Just now they believe that under their new form of government they are well out of the familiar city welter of inefficiency and graft.

The manager plan is spreading. On March 1 of this year, according to the Municipal Yearbook, it had been adopted by 877 cities and 15 counties. These include many cities of 200,000 population and more, among them Oakland, San Diego, Hartford, Kansas City, Dayton, Cincinnati, Dallas, Oklahoma City, and Norfolk and Richmond, in Virginia. Cincinnati is the largest city-manager town, with Oakland second.

The manager cities are proud of their choice and of their achievements. They furnish an example which other cities might well follow.

Striking Miners Receive 'Relief'

NOW COMES the secondary phase of the miners' strike, with word from St. Clairsville that 100 idle coal miners have been added to the Belmont county relief rolls because of the strike.

So, in addition to being deprived of coal—or being penalized by an exorbitant price—the long-suffering public is hit for the relief money demanded by striking miners.

Possibly those strikers in Belmont county, who have so quickly "gone on relief," would prefer to work but are unable to do so because of orders from John L. Lewis.

In any event an amazing situation is created by the fact that public relief funds are called upon to support able-bodied men in idleness while highly remunerative work is being left undone.

Bill Vaughan in the Kansas City Star suggests: "What the automotive designers really ought to build into the new models is something that can be repaired for less than $25."

"Sorry, Mister, But We're All Filled Up."

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER is feeling no better since the communist trial ended. . . . In fact he is complaining that the verdict put his ulcers in double jeopardy.

* * *

But there's one good post-result. . . . Foster says the communists definitely will not go underground and that should free 3,000 seats in the subway in New York.

* * *

Come to think of it . . . between Foster and Lewis hardly anybody is going underground these days.

* * *

Some say some miners are a little dissatisfied with Mr. Lewis but he still stands high in the affection of the oil burner salesmen.

* * *

Steel is a different story . . . no one has yet found a way to substitute tinker toys for steel in permanent construction.

* * *

There is a possibility that Mr. Truman may have to use the Taft-Hartley Act in some of these disputes but it should be understood in advance that he will turn to the law as a last resort.

Daily Bible Thought

Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these ye did it unto me.—Matt. 25:40.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has given out a statement commending the record of the 81st Congress and listing 10 important measures for commendation. His statement shows clearly that the 81st Democratic Congress has placed its stamp of approval on the work of the 80th Republican Congress and has rejected Mr. Truman's Fair Deal program.

(1) Mr. Truman claims credit for the revision of the Armed Forces Unification Act. The 80th Congress adopted the first unification act, six years after Pearl Harbor had shown the necessity of it, during which time the Democratic Congresses had wholly failed to deal with the problem.

(2) He claims credit for the extension of the European Recovery Program. The 80th Congress initiated it.

(3) The 81st Congress extended the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, but so did the 80th. The 81st killed some mild restrictions designed to prevent the use of the President's power in such a way as to destroy any American industry. This hardly seems a subject for commendation.

(4) The 81st Congress enacted the North Atlantic Treaty, but it was the direct result of the Vandenberg resolution adopted by the 80th Congress.

(5) The 81st Congress ratified the International Wheat Agreement which had been acted on by the 80th Congress. It involves the sale of wheat, however, at $1.20 a bushel, which is not a very acceptable indication of wheat values to farmers, and involves a subsidy of $84 million a year, which is not very pleasant news for the taxpayer.

(6) The 81st Congress adopted the Military Assistance Program, to which I am myself opposed. However, it cut down the President's request for money, and it rejected violently the President's first demand that he be given unlimited power to distribute Army and Navy equipment in unlimited quantities to any nation in the world.

(7) The 81st Congress enacted the housing program which had been approved by the Senate of the 80th Congress. In fact, I wrote the bill nearly four years ago.

(8) The 81st Congress extended federal rent controls and so did the 80th. But both of them tried to cut down the extent of the control and return the whole subject gradually to the states.

(9) The 81st Congress did authorize the Commodity Credit Corporation to provide storage space for crops. It had had this power but had never used it until it was made a political issue in 1948.

(10) The President claims particular credit for the bill permitting him to re-organize the government, but of course this grew out of the 80th Congress resolution introduced by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and Congressman Brown of Ohio, creating the Hoover Commission.

* * *

ON the other hand, what has happened to Mr. Truman's Fair Deal program? The Congress has ignored the Spence bill giving power to fix wages, ration commodities and put the government into the steel business and other businesses.

Both House and Senate have rejected the Brannan Plan. Both House and Senate have refused to repeal the Taft-Hartley Law and thereby restore arbitrary powers and special privileges to labor union officials.

Mr. Truman's proposal for socializing and nationalizing medical care in the medical profession has been ignored by the committees. Universal military training has been forgotten. The President's request for more tax money to spend has also been rejected.

* * *

MR. TRUMAN made his principal issue in 1948 against the work of the 80th Congress. The 81st Congress has now approved that work. The truth is that, while this Congress is more radical than the last one a majority of its members still disagree fundamentally with the philosophy of Mr. Truman and the CIO Political Action Committee.

Congress believes in improving our present system instead of destroying it. It is determined not to establish in this country a socialistic government like that in Great Britain.

The issue can only be determined by the people of the United States when they elect the 82nd Congress in November 1950.

As Cerf Tells It

Richard Wildmark, who plays all those snarling, sinister, sadistic villain roles so effectively in Hollywood, was asked by Earl Wilson, "Hasn't your home life been affected by the horrible deeds you perform each day in the studio?" "It certainly has," admitted Widmark. "Every evening I come barging arrogantly into the house, where my wife promptly beats me."

As Others See It

Delayed Report

The Dutch newspaper, De Tijd, reports that a whole Russian "atom city" exploded last spring and killed all scientists in the area.

The story was attributed to an "extraordinary correspondent." Extraordinary, indeed! What was the guy doing, saving the story for the millenium?

What Some Other People Are Saying

ROGER LAPHAM, former ECA chief for China: "I give Chiang Kai-Shek plenty of credit for what he has done over the last 20 years—not selling out to the Japanese during the war, and fighting communism. But in the last year or so, Chiang Kai-Shek's government has been a 100 per cent failure."

* * *

U. S. Forces commander in Austria LIEUT. GEN. GEOFFERY KEYES: "We don't know from day to day what the (Soviet) policy is going to be or why the (Russians) behave as they do."

Navy Propaganda Operates Backstage

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Last year, the 80th Congress investigated an Army propaganda mill which used taxpayers' money to sell the American public on military conscription; while Senator Byrd of Virginia also criticized any branch of the government that issued a press handout publicizing its operation.

But today there operates backstage in the Navy, a secret publicity bureau almost solely dedicated to smearing the Army and Air Forces and disrupting unification.

The publicity bureau is called "Operation 23", and it consists of 12 officers and 17 enlisted men, all on regular duty and officially assigned to this detail. The detail is commanded by a full fledged naval captain, Capt. Arliegh Burke, with commander Thomas Davies second in command.

This underground unit takes orders chiefly from Admiral Arthur Radford, outspoken critic of the B-36.

Significantly, Operation 23 has been flooding newspapers with anti-Army propaganda at the same time an official naval board has been investigating another Navy smear — the secret memo which claimed that Secretaries Symington and Johnson ordered the B-36 because of personal or monetary gain.

This vicious myth, now completely exploded, was written by Cedric Worth, a civilian naval employe — or at least he assumed responsibility. Worth, it now develops, was a part of Operation 23. And even before the board of admirals had finished its probe of the Worth smear, more propaganda began flooding the newspapers — some of it sent through the medium of Naval Reserve Capt. James Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner.

Note — One member of Operation 23 is Lt. Sam Ingram, a naval reservist. Ingram reported for two weeks' active duty one year ago, wrote Admiral Radford a letter castigating the air force, got a call from Radford to drop in for a personal visit. The visit lasted two hours, and Lt. Ingram has been on permanent duty turning out cartoons and charts against the air force ever since. His salary for that year of sniping at another branch of the armed services was paid for by the taxpayer.

O'Mahoney Shifts.

IN THE battle to restore the basing-point system, big business has had a unique partner—Senator Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, the famous trust-buster.

No one could believe that O'Mahoney would come out on the side of the big trusts. Hence, many liberals were lulled to sleep by the fact that O'Mahoney introduced the basing point bill.

In the eyes of big business, this is the most important bill to come up this session of congress. For it would amend the anti-trust laws so that the steel industry, for example, could charge the same price for steel from the blast furnaces of Pittsburgh, Pa., or Geneva, Utah.

This practice of regulating prices by absorbing the shipping costs was outlawed by the Supreme Court, so big business turned to Congress to overrule the court.

O'Mahoney made his bill sound so harmless that it almost passed the senate without an objection. Only at the last minute, Senators Russell Long of Louisiana and Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, both Democrats, caught what was going on, and put up a fight against it.

Back in O'Mahoney's trust-busting days, he bitterly criticized the basing-point system as a conspiracy by the trusts to regulate prices. That's the reason his colleagues couldn't understand why he now introduced a bill to restore the basing-point system. In fact, because of O'Mahoney's reputation, many Senators still believe his bill would encourage instead of stifle competition.

What they don't know, however, is that O'Mahoney was sold a bill of goods by the Westvaco Chemical company of Westvaco, Wyo. This company has paraded as an independent which discovered large trona deposits in Wyoming and now hopes to build a new chemical business producing soda ash from natural trona.

* * *

Who's Fooling Whom?

THE senator from Wyoming wanted to emphasize the independence of the company when he brought Robert D. Pike, an engineer for Westvaco, to Washington to testify.

"This is an independent plant, is it not?" O'Mahoney asked about the Wyoming plant.

"Yes, sir; entirely so," nodded Pike.

"It is not a subsidiary to any other plant engaged in the same business?" the ex-trust buster brought out again.

"No, it is not," replied Pike.

"So that if and when established to develop the potentialities of this deposit, it will be an independent competitive enterprise," O'Mahoney added.

"That is correct, Senator," agreed Pike.

Yet behind the legal red tape, the Westvaco company is not so independent. For the same record, in which this testimony was printed, identified Pike — in fine print — as representing the Westvaco chemical division of the Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation.

This turns out to be a Delaware corporation with tentacles all around the world.

Note — Among the affiliates of Wyoming's so-called independent plant are Warner Chemical Co., of New Jersey, Westvaco Chlorine Products Corp., of New York and New Jersey, West Virginia Charcoal Co., Barium Products, Ltd., of California, and Monarch Chemicals Co., of New Jersey.

'Streets' Always Wet

By INEZ ROBB

VENICE — Everything about this dream city is topsy turvy. The principal "street" lamps are set in the middle of the great lagoon, at the end of the Grand Canal, to regulate water traffic.

The fire trucks are bright red, as befits a fire wagon, but they are large, swift speed boats easily maneuverable in Venice's main streets, which are all canals.

And if a Venetian is sick enough to go to a hospital, he calls the Red Cross ambulance, which is a fast speed boat with an ambulance chassis. If the ill man is too sick to walk to the nearest pier, then he must be carried on a stretcher through Venice's narrow streets and alley-ways to the water ambulance.

This is the city of 300,000 souls where one is never awakened by the snarl of taxi horns or the roar of traffic, because there is none. There is not a single motor car in Venice proper (although there are a handful of cars and a few buses on the swank Lido, a Venetian suburb across the wide lagoon.)

The only "street" noises in Venice are the loud and anguished cries of the gondoliers as they quarrel among themselves. Even now the gondoliers are girding themselves for their annual fray with Sinclair Lewis, who, from his apartment in the Gritti Palace hotel, screams down maledictions upon them whem they awaken him at night and sometimes even silences them — for ten minutes.

* * *

Celebrities Abound.

VENICE is accustomed to celebrities. Its visitors this year have varied from Princess Margaret Rose, to Barbara Hutton at the Lido Excelsior to Thomas E. Dewey at the Grand Danieli, once the noble residence of a Doge of Venice.

On arrival at the Danieli, Mr. Dewey threw the hotel help into a tizzy by ordering six large bottles of mineral water and no whisky to go with it. The waiter who delivered the six bottles of sparkling water to the Republicans' last standard bearer, returned to his station, shrugged his shoulders fatalistically and reportedly said:

"He lost an election, but must he drown himself?"

America's five - and - dime heiress is a bit of a legend in Venice. During her marriage — to Prince Alexis Mdvani — she bought a palazzo on the Grand Canal. But she divorced Mdvani before she ever lived in it, and the palazzo went to him as part of the divorce settlement.

Mdvani was killed in an auto accident in Spain. Then the American heiress began having difficulties not only with a succession of husbands but with her health. And finally, former King Michael of Romania spent a season in the palazzo just before he lost his throne.

Now the palazzo is known as the place of ill fortune, and is pointed out to American tourists along with the historic palaces that line the canal.

The Anglo-Saxon nose and sense of sanitation are oft affronted by the aroma of the Venetian canals, compounded of sewage and garbage. But certainly to the outward eye, Venetians are as healthy as any other peoples, and certainly they live as long.

For myself, I am so bewitched by this city that I drift along the canals at twilight in perfect content. The rich odors of Italian cooking fill the air and the rich ingredients bob happily on the surface of the water, here an onion, there a half head of lettuce, yonder an artichoke and further along, a chianti bottle floating peacefully out to sea.

Me, I side with the Venetians who are within their rights when they invite people who don't like the way the canals smell to go back where they came from.

Crocuses For Spring

By LOIS ADAMS BYERS

THE BEGINNING of beauty is often in a small insignificant looking package. To have crocuses early next spring, you must plant them now. It doesn't take long.

There's great charm in the new fall catalog of flowering bulbs. On the front covet, tulips —golden yellow, bright scarlet, salmon, deep violet blue. On the back cover, hyacinths — a half dozen shades of pink, blue, yellow and carmine. Leaf through the pages. Narcissus and daffodils; crocuses and snowdrops; Dutch iris; jonquils; a dozen kinds of hardy lilies.

And then there are bulbs for indoor flowering in winter time; white and yellow callas; oxalis; sparazis; Easter lilies.

This bulb idea is a kind of challenge. There's gentle adventure here that can be pursued at home by anyone with enough patience and faith to make the beginning. Such flowers are a delightful spring-like touch to home when winter is waning.

* * *

THE cemetery was wet from a warm rain. The autumal hills spread their most glorious colors around us. The two older children—and Susan—went with me to plant the crocuses upon their father's grave.

We drove in at the main entrance and rode along the narrow avenue between the gravestones.

Three new mounds were heaped high with flowers; a fourth had wilted blossoms. The caretaker was quietly, busily at work, preparing another "final resting-place."

We stopped at the spot, still unmarked by any stone, where faint rectangular scars in the turf showed that the sod had been moved. We knelt and thrust the small round corms down two inches or more into the moist earth among the grass roots. Our fingers were earthy. Susan tried her two new teeth on her bulb, before planting it.

We stood and lifted our eyes and hearts toward the hills—the beautiful, protecting hills. When winter rains come, or snow lies deep, it will be comforting to know that the crocuses are there —just waiting.

Hong Kong Situation Recalls Singapore

BY J. C. OESTREICHER

SEEMINGLY incongruous dispatches from Hong Kong tell of banquets, dances and tea parties staged by unruffled British residents of the fabulous crown colony.

Only a few miles away, victorious communist troops are shooting off firecrackers to celebrate their conquest of Canton and points south and have moved up to border stations on the Chinese side of Hong Kong's frontier.

The descriptions recall inevitably the easy-going attitude of Singapore under the guns of Japanese invaders in 1942.

There is one essential difference.

Heavy British infantry, artillery and air force reinforcements were sent long ago to Hong Kong.

The naval garrison has been strengthened greatly and the government of Prime Minister Attlee is on record with frequent declarations that the colony will be defended at all costs. There probably will be no request for aid from the United States.

British hostesses at Hong Kong are filling out men-short party lists with garrison officers.

But the male civilians are proceeding with maintenance of a strong volunteer defense force. And for the present at least it does not seem likely that the example of Singapore will be repeated.

Yet the similarities are obvious, and frightening. Parties at the Raffles hotel in Singapore continued almost up to the moment of the city's surrender. And when the Japanese surged in only seven days after they had conquered Malaya and encountered the city's so-called "impregnable defenses," it was a matter of only seven days.

Hong Kong simply is not China. It is a British outpost of empire and recognized as such by civilized nations throughout the world.

Communist seizure of other cities on the mainland can be disguised, with questionable success, as popular movements representing the desire of the common people to turn against the nationalism of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his kuomintang.

An offensive against Hong Kong, on the other hand, would be clear aggression against a foreign occupant and "protector," ill-timed indeed if the new China hopes to find a place on the United Nations general assembly and take its part in support of the Soviet bloc.

Work of Local Red Cross In Noronic Disaster Gets Praise

The importance of disaster preparedness work in local Red Cross chapters throughout the nation was brought home forcibly with the "Noronic" steamship disaster at Toronto.

The account of the part the Richland county Red Cross chapter played in obtaining an interview with Mrs. Mary Schettler, one of the disaster survivors, is told in the September report just issued by the chapter staff.

Immediately on notification of the disaster, three Red Cross representatives were assigned to work with the Canadian Red Cross. At least 800 contacts were made throughout the country in an effort to reach relatives of the victims. The Richland county chapter received praise from the disaster representative for "the prompt and efficient manner in which you handled our request to secure information from Mrs. Schettler."

All local chapters have been alerted to assist survivors and families of victims in any way necessary. This may include burial of the dead, medical care, financial aid while awaiting settlement of claims and other necessary help.

The report also contains information about the Junior Red Cross activities under Mrs. Ephraim Brown. Students of Miss Mary Jane Bolus, art teacher at Senior high school, will design covers for monthly chapter bulletins. Eight or ten covers will be submitted and Mrs. Brown and Miss Virginia Casperson, secretary, will select the one to be used each month. The Junior Red Cross year book has been distributed to teacher-sponsors.

A total of 47 volunteers gave 328 hours during September, according to the report. Volunteers included staff aides, motor service workers, nurses' aides, canteen workers and social welfare aides.

American Labor Unions Dragging U.S. Towards British Socialism

NEW YORK — The collapse of the English system of civil rights was caused not by tories or capitalists but by the labor unions.

The English worker is chained to his job and may be put in jail for refusal to work at his assigned task even though it may call him far from home. The unions threw in with the Marxian socialists of the Labor party, whose political faith is the same as that of the Russian bolsheviks.

But the voters were deceived because the party politicians were careful not to call their program socialism. They called themselves "planners" and invented a jargon to disguise intentions which the people otherwise would have frustrated.

Meanwhile, the workers of the United States unwittingly and unwillingly are helping this Marxian government to make permanent the degradation of the British people.

Our government's financial support of the adventurers and incompetents who thus got control of the British government by false pretenses is all that has kept it in power.

So it follows that the American people, without knowing that we were doing so, have helped very materially to destroy the liberties of the breed who established the basis of our own liberties.

Whatever the emotional attitude of individual Americans toward the English, and many of us dislike them only for petty reasons, the fact cannot be scoffed away that they established, and our founding fathers copied, the limitation of the power of government over the people.

Britons fought, bled and died to win these rights. That limitation was first waived in Britain during war emergencies with the understanding that this was a temporary accomodation. However, the people thus got accustomed to a more and more abject condition so, when the British Marxian government began to flounder, the people meekly accepted the renewal of the impositions in peace.

It should be observed that the American "labor" movement is violently defending the oppressors in Britain. Meanwhile, some British union bosses have begun to drag their heels and try to pull away from the labor government. But, as they do, the Marxians of the government party turn on them snarling.

The government which they elected to power may clap them in jail and frustrate their efforts to recapture the workers' rights. Our own union bosses, learning nothing from this example, are still pushing, driving, dragging the American people toward the same socialism or communism.

The British labor government inched up to labor conscription. Had these brutal cynics said frankly at the outset that they intended to draft and "transport" labor they would have been turned down cold.

Living so close to Germany and Italy, the British had observed more sharply than the Americans that the "democratic majority" is the most brutal tyrant of all.

"Majorities," as we have observed in the politics of our own union rackets, usually are not majorities at all but majorities of "those present" or majority votes of conventions where the ruling gangsters pass upon the credentials of all the delegates.

Thus far, the minister of labor says, the power to put citizens in jail for refusing to bail him out of his failure has been used sparingly. But the fact remains that the Marxian government now has the power to starve a citizen who refuses to comply.

Uses Tricks To Stress Safety Need

Foremen's Club Hears Magician

Clyde R. Powell, Endicott Johnson corporation public relations director, last night stressed the idea of selling safety to members of the Mansfield-Shelby Foremen's club.

Addressing more than 200 members at their monthly dinner meeting at the Richland Recreation last night, Powell, a magician, sleight-of-hand artist and hypnotist, demonstrated his safety lecture through a series of magic tricks and hypnosis.

"Make safety a 'we' proposition," he told the foremen. "Tell your men 'we' are interested in safety, not 'I'. Make them feel as if they are an important cog in your safety program."

He cited such leaders as Churchill, Napoleon and Lincoln who told people what they wanted to hear. By making them feel they were important and indispensible, these leaders accomplished what they wanted, he said

"Accidents cost money," he stated. "By selling safety to your men you're doing good business by cutting down the delay in manhours lost by needless accidents. Such safety precautions as gogles and shoes make men safety conscious."

USES HYPNOTISM

Using hypnotism, Powerll illustrated his talk by demonstrating that "the best method of selling safety is through suggestion." He told several volunteers from the audience to open their mouths and put their fists under their chins. After a minute of somewhat wild ranting and gestures, he told them to try to close their mouths by pressing upward with their fists.

In a hypnotic trance, they couldn't do it until Powell "freed" them by snapping his fingers.

He also successfully told them they couldn't open their eyes or unclench their hands until he allowed them.

Showing the dangers of an unguarded machinery, he asked Maxine Bonar of Westinghouse electric to place her hand on a guillotine-like affair in which he previously had snipped off some carrots. After placing her hand on the machine. Powell slammed the truck blade seemingly through her wrist. Though Miss Bonar screamed a bit, she was unhurt.

Concluding his demonstration, he hypnotised a subject and told him that after he awoke from the "hynotic trance" his right foot would itch terribly as soon as Powell would light a match.

Awakening him, Powell lit the match and the audience alternately laughed and stared for some minutes while the subject itched and scratched.

Foreign-Born Wife Speaks

Finds Real Democracy At YW

Included in the group of Mansfield housewives and mothers participating in the weekly "Ladies Day Out" program at the YWCA is the foreign-born wife of a Mansfield native.

Born and educated in one of the smaller European countries, she has lived in Mansfield for the past three years, but membership in the association's newest program was her first venture into local group activities.

Each week she places her three-year-old daughter in the nursery maintained in connection with the YWCA's program, and enthusiastically enters into the group's activities. She has made many new friends among the participants, and has joined other civic groups since.

Not long ago she told Miss Agnes Kessler, executive secretary of the association:

"I had always been told in my native country of the democratic way of life in the United States, but I had also heard there was a great deal of racial discrimination in this country," she said.

'Since coming here I have found that the YWCA is operated as a truly democratic organization should be; in my group are several religioks as well as races. There are girls who work in factories participating in the activities along with former teachers and other professional workers . . . . . these are the things which I had dreamed I would find when I came to the United States, and I have found them right here in the YWCA," she told Miss Kessler.

MISS AGNES KESSLER . . . executive secretary, YWCA

The young mother is typical of the group attending the "Ladies Day Out" programs, and was one of the most active workers in the association's recent drive to enroll new members in the organization.

The YWCA is a Red Feather agency of the Community Chest whose 1949 campaign for funds is now in progress.

2 APPLES IN ONE—

A resident of the Mansfield area has produced an apple which he believes is the first of its kind. O. D. Hampton, of the Hampton orchards three and a half miles west of Lexington, is the owner of the apple which is a combination of two different varieties. The small fruit is sharply divided down the center with one half of the deep red of a Scarlet Stamared and the other half the lighter red of a Staman Winesap. Hampton said the apple grew on one of 60 Scarlet Stamared trees which he planted 10 years ago. All of the other fruit produced by the trees in those 10 years has been the normal Stamared variety. He explained the Scarlet Stamared variety was originally developed by grafting a different branch on a Winesap tree and he believes this "freak" is a throwback to the parent tree. Among the other fruit produced by the Hampton orchards this year is a large Winesap apple, 12½ inches in circumference and weighing 14 ounces.

SPRUCED UP— ★

The basement of the YWCA has taken on a new look with the completion of remodeling to make a crafts room on that floor. Walls of the crafts room have been newly-painted and new drawing boards, lighting, and other equipment installed. The room is being used for both painting and crafts classes, including the crafts program of the Ladies' Day Out group. Miss Agnes Kessler, executive secretary of the YWCA, said the Wednesday night painting class is filled to capacity, but there is still room for a few adults in the crafts and textile painting class held from 7 to 9 p. m. Thursday. Mrs. Alice Twitchell, part-time member of the YWCA staff, teaches both classes.

Hears DiSanze Action

Dibble Matter On Docket

The Fifth District Court of Appeals, meeting today in the Richland county courthouse, will decide whether Pete DiSanze, 19 Wolfe avenut, will have to move a new house he is building in Woodland. The court will hear two other cases during its session here.

DiSanze is building a $22,000 house at the northwest corner of Dickson parkway and Brae Burn.

A ruling was handed down in Common Pleas court in August holding that DiSanze would not have to move the partially-constructed ranch-type dwelling.

Tracy R. and Ethel M. Charles, 126 Benton street, brought an equity action, contending that DiSanze and the contractor Ivon Bauer, were violating allotment restrictions by building on that site.

The plaintiffs contended that DiSanze's two lots front on Dickson parkway and, according to allotment restrictions, the house should be 50 feet back from the front street line on Brae Burn, and 25 feet back from Dickson parkway.

Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch found that the two lots were one, and that it fronted on Brae Burn.

He ruled that so long as the house was 50 feet back from Brae Burn, it could be 25 feet back from Dickson parkway.

ASK INJUNCTION

The plaintiffs had asked also for a mandatory injunction to compel DiSanze to move his house in accordance with the restrictions. They said the DiSanze house would cut off their view to the south and reduce the value of their property. The plaintiffs are building their own house at the corner of Stewart lane and Dickson parkway.

The other appeals involve cases of Inez F. Dibble vs. Jewell C. Dibble, administrator of the estate of Herbert L. Dibble, and Alice M. Richard, administrator of the estate of M. F. Crawford vs. Frank J. Dalton.

The Dibble case is an appeal of a probate court verdict involving the estate of Herbert L. Dibble, late president of the Carton Service, Inc., Shelby.

Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer found that Jewell G. Dibbie, of 205 Park avenue west, was the surviving spouse of the deceased man and entitled to share his estate. Inez F. Dibble, in bringing the action, contended she was the legal wife of the deceased. The estate involves $32,580.

The Richard action is to decide whether or not $80 and interest is due the estate of M. F. Crawford from Dalton, the defendant.

3 Bicycles In Collisions

One Youthful Rider Hurt

Three youthful bicycle riders were involved in traffic accidents in Mansfield yesterday.

Robert Heckel, 10, of 360 Wood street, suffered abrasions of his right knee and elbow when his bicycle struck the right rear door and fender of a Yellow Stripe cab driven by Walter P. Meyer, 461 Van Buren street at 4 p. m. yesterday.

Police said the accident occurred in the first alley west of Brinkerhoff school off Marion avenue.

Two other bike riders escaped injury when they collided with a truck on North Adams street at exactly the same time as the Marion avenue school accident occurred.

The boys were Eugene Shelton, 16, of 391 Henry street, and James Jerels, 17, of 298 Park avenue east. Police said Shelton's bike collided with the right front fender of a truck stopped on North Adams street near East Temple court. At the same time, the bike ridden by James Jerels collided with the rear end of the truck which ran over the bike's rear wheel.

Richard E. Snavely, 1005 South Main street driver of the truck, said he was attempting a right turn into East Temple court when he saw Shelton coming toward him and stopped. Jerels, following the truck, was unable to stop with the truck.

Both bicycles were damaged.

Part of Lake Areas Closed To Hunters

Richland county duck hunters were warned today by Lorin James, county game protector, that certain areas of Charles Mill dam and Pleasant Hill are closed to hunting.

The season gets underway at noon Friday and continues through Nov. 29

"The area at Charles Mill north of Route 30-N as far as Stagerwolt bridge is closed," James reported, "as is that portion of Pleasant Hill which is posted. The posted sector starts approximately 6,180 feet west and parallel to the Richland-Ashland county line."

Postmaster Curtis L. Ford announced today that only 56 migratory waterfowl (duck) stamps had been sold at the post office by 9 a. m., so ducks should be fairly safe in flying over the Richland county area.

Ford warned hunters that since 500 or 600 stamps are sold annually, the last minute rush might block proposed hunting plans. He urged all duck hunters to purchase the $2 stamp at their earliest convenience.

The stamps went on sale Sept. 26.

H. A. "Buck" Rider, state wildlife chief, has reported that hunters can look forward to an improved season this year but he denied reports that hunting will be "sensational."

"There is no truth," Rider declared, "in the statement that the number of ducks has increased by 100 per cent."

Along with this denial of a "sensational" season, Rider backed state officials who have predicted a 20 per cent increase in flights over Ohio. He said since fall weather has been warm, the largest concentration of ducks will pass through Ohio in mid-November.

He singled out Port Clinton as the best hunting spot in Ohio and added that the Muskingum conservancy district should provide some of the best inland shooting.

Hunting hours are limited, after the first day, from one-half hour before sunrise to one hour before sunset.

This year's season is a 10-day extension over last year.

Hickory Nut Contest Started To Locate Finest Area Trees

County Agent C. N. McGrew today announced the opening of the Ohio Hickory Nut contest initiated and sponsored by the Ohio Nut Growers in cooperation with the Ohio Farmer and the Ohio Forestry association. There will be $76 offered in prize money for the best nuts.

The purpose of this contest, McGrew said, is to find the hickory trees that bear fine nuts so that similar trees may be grown for home use or for probable orchard planting.

The county agent said," There should be hundreds of hickory trees over our state which bear nuts far superior to the ordinary ones and there are few farm families who do not possess, or who do not know of, some favorite tree."

He said a good nut is one in which the kernels are bright, tender, have a good flavor and can be removed from the shell in unbroken halves.

The contest closes Nov. 15. McGrew said anyone desiring to enter could phone his office for information about rules.

BOSSES' NIGHT HELD BY NATIONAL SECRETARIES

Dr. Tennyson Guyer of Findlay Gives Address At Dinner Meeting Held At Mansfield-Leland Hotel

BY JOAN SCHWEITZ

The one night a year, when the boss has a perfectly legal excuse to be out with his secretary, rolled around again last night when the Hill City chapter of the National Secretaries association entertained their bosses with a dinner and program at the Mansfield-Leland ballroom.

Miss Lois Addelesperger, president of the local group, welcomed the sixty members and guests present. C. J. Kalbfleisch served as toastmaster.

Mrs. Doris Smith presented three vocal selections, followed by two young dancers, Miss Lyndo Mercurio and Miss Johanna Burns, pupils of the Margaret Speas Dancing Studio.

Dr. Tennyson Guyer, of Findlay, was the guest speaker of the evening. His topic was "The Inns on the Road to Happiness." He told the audience that both as individuals and as a nation we must learn to have fun, even at our own expense. We must learn to take a joke.

He discussed, as the Inns, in his topic, heritage, opportunity, cheerfulness and faith. "We must work together," the speaker said, "not as one group but as one people, proud of our heritage and taking advantage of the opportunities before us."

Dinner was served on long tables forming a U-shape. Autumn appointments included a floral arrangement of crysanthemums at the speaker's table, green tapers twined with bittersweet and scooped out pumpkins containing fruit and nuts.

Mrs. Lola Bottomley served as chairman of the program committee assisted by Mrs. Mildred Brady, Mrs. Norma Stanfield and Mrs. Iva Parons. Miss Ethel Heuss headed the decoration committee assisted by Miss May Rayle, Miss Florence Cairns, and Miss Sally Foster.

Sorority Holds First Guest Entertainment

The first guest party of the year for Alpha Pi Sigma sorority was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Harvey Hauserman, Park avenue west.

During a brief business meeting it was decided to attend the First Methodist church in a group next Sunday. Each year the group will attend another church for the designated Sunday.

Bridge was the diversion with high prize awarded to Mrs. Sam Maxwell. The guest prize was presented to Miss Norma Leppert.

Luncheon was served by the hostess and associate hostesses, Mrs. Ralph Norris, Mrs. Paul Carbetta and Miss Grace Crotty, in the recreation room of the Hauserman home, at small tables. The floral arrangements and appointments were all in keeping with the autumn season.

The next meeting will be a business session, No. 1 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Mrs. Frank Leavitt Gives Talk To Tourist Club Members

Tourist Club members met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. I. S. Perry, Park avenue east road, for a dessert luncheon, with 24 in attendance.

Mrs. Frank Leaveitt was in charge of the program on "Flower Arrangements", assisted by Mrs. R. K. Clark. Mrs. Leavitt told the group that today we study flower arrangements to get more beauty from them. The arrangement, she said, must follow the laws of design, scale, balance and harmony to get the most pleasing results.

"Flowers placed in a triangle," stated the speaker, "form a good arrangement and are easier to use than other forms. The flowers should have a definite place in the arrangement. There also must be harmony in color of the flowers, as well as in the container which holds them."

She showed examples of attractive flower arrangements, using different flowers, vases and appointments to illustrate her talk.

Routine business was conducted by the president, Mrs. S. D. Hoover. Mrs. Robert Wilson Beechwood was named as a new member. The club went on record as favoring the three mill school levy and opposing any measure toward Socialized Medicine.

Mrs. Harry Bowers will be hostess to the club at the Women's Club on Nov. 1 with Mrs. C. E. Frankeberger in charge of the program.

Inspiration plus imagination are "musts" for any truly good cook. Then give her the simplest ingredients and she will produce a tasty dish. For example, challenge her with ground round. Does she throw it at you in the shape of a plain patty? Indeed not. If it be a patty she seasons it with thyme, onion, parsley, salt and pepper. Sour cream is added to pan drippings after patties are sauteed and there is the most delectable gravy to top a meat dish fit for a king.

For another occasion a small nugget of golden cheese is buried in the center of beef patties to surprise and please the happy diner. Then when ground round goes to a meat loaf, it becomes a "different" meat loaf Without a trace of bread crumbs. This specialty calls for chopped vegetables instead. It too is well seasoned. It, too is just plain delicious.

If economy is an issue, a genius of the kitchen, such as home economist Nancy Holmes would combine ground beef with feather-light Pinwheel Biscuits and turn out a dish all the family will go for.

Beef and Pinwheel Biscuit Casserole

¾ to 1 lb. ground beef
1 small onion, chopped
4 tablespoons vitaminized margarine
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons flour
1 can green peas
1 recipe baking powder biscuit dough
¼ cup chopped parsley.

Brown beef and onion in margarine. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour. Stir in peas. Pour in greased shallow casserole. Set aside. Make biscuit dough, turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently ½ minute Roll or pat ½ inch thick and spread with melted margarine, sprinkle with chopped parsley and roll up like a jelly roll. Cut in 1-inch slices and place cut side down on top of meat and vegetable mixture. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

MISS GERALDINE RICE

United Nations Proves Helpful

"The United Nations already has proved itself to be a practical, working organization," says Creighton Peet, in the October issue of CHARM.

Mr. Peet's informative article discusses the specialized agencies of the United Nations, and points out how successful they have been in preventing disease and famine in countries all over the world.

These special agencies operate on the theory that a plague, a famine, acute financial distress, or gross illiteracy, anywhere in the world, will eventually affect us all.

The World Health Organization, or WHO, as it is known, with headquarters in Geneva, is one of the most successful. It sends out teams of doctors, nurses, and public health people to areas threatened with epidemics, or to countries where everyone suffers from chronic ill health.

In Greece, WHO went after malaria which, in some places, had affected eighty-five per cent of the population. Planes dusted DDT over hundreds of square miles. By killing off the disease-carrying mosquitoes, malaria was almost wiped out.

Refugees are a major concern of the United Nations. At present, the International Refugees Organization, or the IRO, is engaged in the job of resettling hundreds of thousands of displaces persons and concentration camp victims.

No More Dry Skins

One good reason for using creams at the end of the summer is dry skin. If it is flaky in patches or looks leathery about eyes and mouth, sun and wind may have dried the natural oils of your skin.

You'll need super-cleansing and mild stimulation to smooth your skin to normal. A little kit containing several super-rich night emollient and cleansing creams is ideal while you are going through your dry-skin session. Super-rich cleanser can absorb accumulated soil without massage. You can apply and remove it with a cleansing tissue, then apply a cooling complexion lotion and a foundation which will impart a new luminous skin beauty for fall. But super-rich night creams should be used when they are required.

The total annual cost of medical, dental, and hospital care resulting from accidental injuries to farm residents in 1948 was about $36,000,000.

A Little Fur Makes Difference

This year a small piece of fur makes a big difference in the way you look—it's a touch of luxury, of glamour So here's your chance to make a fur gadget from either pieces of fur you've saved, or lined strips sold by the yard.

Here are hints from the experts at the Woman's Home Companion to help you. They suggest adding ermine tails, which can be bought in any department store, to the end of a velvet stole to wear with a strapless gown. A chic accessory for an afternoon suit is a narrow ascot tie made of sheared coney and fastened with a bunch of violets.

You could freshen last year's wool dress by adding a pocket of a smooth fur, and a matching belt which fastens in front with a fabric buckle of leather thongs.

PINOCHLE CLUB

The Saturday Night Pinochle club met Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Benham, Lexington avenue. High score winners were William Fisher and Mrs. Robert Haspeslagh. Mr. and Mrs. Delmas Cochran will entertain the club on Nov. 19.

Finely diced celery is an excellent addition to a tomato cocktail sauce for seafood; use a combination of catchup and chili sauce for the base and flavor with Worcestershire sauce, horseradish, lemon jucie and freshly ground pepper.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, October 20 . .

REASON and commonsense seem to indicate an auspicious launching of projects of more than passing significance, with a forecast of recognition and encouragement from influential sources. A favorable end seems to be in sight, with promise of substantial aid for worthwhile projects. While growth and eventual security seem at hand it may be difficult to convince capital for cherished expansion. Persistent and faithful effort may win.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are impelled to seek larger and far-reaching scenes of operation, especially in putting over important projects of solid and enduring proportions. Sustained efforts, sound plans and logical developments seem to bear rich fruit, although expansion and production may be held up for want of resources or needed capital. However with persistent efforts, high purpose and good headwork, opposition or impediment may melt away.

A child born on this day will be ambitious, capable, shrewd and far - visioned: may need cooperation from high places to further its serious work and objectives.

TO BE WED

WILLARD — Miss Audra Mae Livenspire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Livenspire, and Charles D. Rapp, son of Dalton Rapp and Mrs. Marjorie Kearney, will be married on Sunday, Oct. 30, at 2 p. m. The open church wedding will take place at the Evangelical United Brethren church, with a reception following in the church parlors.

Mrs. Cynthia Heifner and Mrs. F. E. Fisher were guests. Mrs. Harry Kaser, Pulver-List road, will entertain Oct. 27 at her home.

Jellied Fruit Salad Ideal For After-Dinner Parties

Plan easy refreshments for your parties.

The cottage cheese frosting on this jellied fruit salad mold gives this dessert, for after-dinner parties, a very festive air.

To save on dish washing, serve the Cheese Salad Dessert on individual trays which will also hold the beverage. This dessert will be popular with both your older and your younger guests. Change the beverage to be appropriate according to age. Youngsters will like chocolate drink made with instant mix. Some of the oldsters will want this too, and for those who want coffee, you can quickly make the right number of cups using instant coffee.

CHEESE SALAD DESSERT
(Makes 10 servings)

2 No. 2½ cans fruit salad or sliced or diced fruit
2 packages cherry-flavored gelatin
3 3-oz. packages Cream Cheese
1 3 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Drain fruit. Add enough water to fruit juice to make 3½ cups liquid. Heat liquid to boiling, pour over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add fruit and pour into 8-inch round cake pan which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Let cream cheese soften at room temperature; gradually stir in mayonnaise. Unmold gelatin on chilled plate. Frost top with cheese mixture. Return to refrigerator until frosting hardens, about 2 hours. Serve with French dressing, if desired.

Chicago Business Man Says, "Down With All Secretaries"

By EDWARD S. KITCH
(AP Newsfeatures)

CHICAGO — H. P. Edgar is the nom de plume of a Chicago business man. He used the pseudonym because he expressed his personal opinions about office secretaries in rather tart terms.

A few of his comments, are: "Some 40 years ago I was elevated to the dignity of a private office . . . and a private secretary. Until recently I have shared a common belief of many business men that stenographers are necessary. But I have made a great discovery. Secretaries are not only unnecessary, they are an outright nuisance. . . . .I have discovered that (1) secretaries drive you, (2) distract you, (3) baby you, (4) cramp your style, and (5) take charge. I have found furthermore, that secretaries keep people out and let people in—the wronge people; that they lose things, misunderstand you, get things wrong; that they make appointments for you that you wish they hadn't . . . they create maddening detail, and in no time have a vested interest in the office and in you. I repeat; they are a nuisance.

"And note this, women are sinister. They want you to take them out to dinner. They despise the idea of a man running his life. They want to oversee your diet, your etiquiet, your address list and, worst of all, they pry. Back to the good old days, when we kept them out of the office.

". . .My indictment is by no means concluded. Secretaries are noisy; they talk. Secretaries are nosy; they pry. They are vain; they primp. They are confirmed clock watchers, gum chewers, umbrage takers. They are always telephoning, or playing kittenish, and all to often they are right and you are wrong."

A footnote by the editor of "Commerce Magazine" explains: "Mr. Edgar's warning against matrimonial - minded secretaries is voiced against a background of experience; he married his!"

Food Show Planned For Nov. 10-18

Experts on food and homemaking from all corners of the United States will gather in Cleveland for the coming 61st annual Cleveland Food and Home Show at Public Hall, November 10 through 18.

Advice and information on the newest developments in food products and home equipment will be supplied to show visitors by these experts who will man the 250 different exhibits in this oldest and largest food show in America, according to Walter W. Knight, show manager and secretary of the Cleveland Retail Grocers Association, the organization that brings this annual event to Cleveland.

The Main Arena of Public Hall will become the largest grocery store to be found anyplace for the annual Food Show. The stage in the huge hall this year will be utilized by the top entertainment troupes headed by such star attractions as Walter O'Keefe, proprietor of the popular NBC Double Or Nothing network show; and the 80 uniformed musicians and chorus of the Hormel Girl's Corps. The Girls Corps, made up entirely of former WACS, Waves, Spars, and Marines, will give stage performances at the Food Show both afternoon and evening on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. O'Keefe and his troupe will give their regular program every afternoon and repeat the complete show in the evening Monday through Friday.

As in past years, according to Knight, the show visitors will have ample opportunity to sample many of the new products that the major producers and packer of food products will be introducing at the Food Show. The exhibitors in the coming Food Show are from some 30 of the states from all corners of this nation.

You an usually count on a pound of fresh shrimp to make a main dish to serve three when it is coupled with a creole or curry sauce; if the shrimp is to be used for a first course cocktail a pound will serve four easily.

Offer 10 Carloads of Apples

8 County Farmers Seek Sale

Reply To $1.70 Offer By U. S.

Eight Richland county orchardists offered yesterday to sell 5,000 bushels of apples to the government for distribution to schools for lunches, Guy Taylor, county Triple-A chairman announced today.

The applications are in answer to the federal government's announcement last week that it will buy apples at $1.70 a bushel, well over the going market price of $1 to $1.50 a bushel for first grade apples.

The government's offer to buy apples in the county is a move to prevent the glutting of the market, the Triple-A office said.

The 5,000 bushels amounts to 10 boxcars of apples. Taylor said today he wouldn't know how many of the 10 carloads would be bought by the government from Richland county growers until he is notified by the federal Production and Marketing administration.

Only 40 carloads of apples will be purchased throughout the state by the PMA, Taylor said. He pointed out that it is therefore doubtful that all 20 carloads offered by Richland orchardists would be accepted.

There will be other purchase orders later, he added.

Taylor explained that there are 24 large growers in the county. The eight who filed applications were among the biggest producers.

DWARF CATTLE—Gene Holter, 27, Jamestown cattle showman stands with five dwarf cattle at Jamestown, N. Y., which he says he captured in a lost canyon. Holter said the animals were flown out with a helicopter. He declined to say where the canyon is located other than it is "somewhere in the U. S." and that it contains more dwarf cattle which he plans to capture. The animals weigh from 150 to 225 pounds and stand 24 to 28 inches high.

North Now Casts Eyes At Cotton

Plants Take Hold In Cool Country

MEMPHIS — (UP) — The old refrain, "Pick dat cotton, tote dat bale," no longer is confined to the south or the irrigated areas of the far west.

From now on, strap-hanging cotton farmers of the north will be a part of the cotton picture. For nowadays many a citizen in colder climes who never saw a boll before in his life is "making a crop."

It all started last January when the National Cotton council placed advertisements in buses, trolleys, trains and other assorted commuter modes of transportation. In 297 cities, the millions of passengers were offered free cotton seed and instructions on how to grow cotton at home.

Their curiosity piqued, the commuters responded with thousands of letters to "Cotton, Memphis, Tenn."

The seed packets and instructions went out to such un-cottonish places as Seattle, Salt Lake City, Boston, Detroit, Chicago and Washington.

Now the results have come in. Letters, cards and pictures tell the story of the proud cotton farmers of Yankeeland.

A Pennsylvanian reported that he planted six seeds and, "I now have between 60 and 70 bolls, some as large as chicken eggs."

A Washington, D. C., Post Office Department official said that he had a seven-foot stalk in his backyard, "covered with cotton bolls."

Teachers and mothers reported unusual success in arousing interest in the small fry.

And, of course, there were the problems. Some seeds which were watered too much or planted in poor soil failed to produce. Others apparently were not fertilized properly.

The northern cotton planters had their troubles, although none reported difficulty with that blight of farmers below the Mason and Dixon line—the boll weevil.

But the seed mailings turned up a new cotton foe. A Boston housewife asked for additional seeds, explaining that her first plants came up fine but when they reached a height of a few inches, "the cat ate them."

Seed Samples Needed Now

Richland county farmers who expect to use the testing services of the state seed laboratory in Columbus, on field or vegetable seed intended for planting next spring, are urged to submit their seed sample immediately to insure prompt reports of analysis.

A new policy has been initiated by H. S. Foust, director of agriculture.

Seed samples, submitted from any source, for testing between May 1 and Dec. 1, of any year, will be analyzed in the order in which they are received. During the remainder of each year, official samples of commercial seed are to be given preference in the order of testing.

The new plan establishes limitations on the number of unofficial samples of various classifications of seed which will be tested free. For example, two unofficial samples of seed, such as red clover, sweet clover, alfalfa, alsike, and others, or one sample of seed such as red top, blue grass, fescue and the like will be analyzed for purity, and for germination if requested, free of charge, or three germination tests will be made gratis on any kinds of seed submitted.

Harvest Corn Wind 'Cut'

Iowa farmers are busy at the back-breaking job of harvesting 50,000,000 bushels of corn left on the ground by a severe wind storm Oct. 10.

Some of the state's schools are out this week to permit children to aid in the salvage job.

Weakened by corn borers, the corn is easily smashed by the wind. Many farmers have turned their hogs into the corn fields to pick up the ears that were blown down. Most Iowa farms used corn pickers which won't pick up the ears that are blown down.

Despite the loss, however, the Tall Corn state will harvest one of its biggest crops of corn.

Boys Run Down Battery of Car

Two boys, believed to have entered a parked car at the rear of a West Fourth street furniture store Monday night, turned on the radio and windshield wipers, and left the auto with a run-down battery.

Harold C. Cox, 394 Newman street, who reported the incident to police at 9:30 p. m. said his wife saw two boys run from the parking lot. Cox, who said the car had been left unlocked, said nothing was missing from the auto.

Library Again Closed By Cold

Cold has driven staff members of the Mansfield Public library to the upstairs offices again, Miss Lois MacKellar said today.

"It's just too cold and damp to work downstairs," she declared.

Work on the addition to the public library is progressing, but staff members have no idea when they'll be able to open the building to the public, Miss MacKellar said.

Davis Keeps Post With P-TA Board

R. Y. Davis, as chairman of the special education committee of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers, will continue as a member of the state board of managers, Mrs. Russell C. Bickel of Columbus, new Congress president, announced today.

Davis, a teacher at Johnny Appleseed junior high school, was last year's radio chairman and during his tenure promoted the objectionable comic books project. Davis also is fifth civic president of the Congress, re-elected to that post at the annual convention, and director of the department of education for the Ohio organization.

Hollywood Happenings

Esther Williams' Baby Already Swims

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Esther Williams admits this may not be believed, but her two-month-old son is swimming already.

"It sounds fantastic, I know," says the swim star. "But Benjie actually swims in his bath. All I do is keep his chin above water and he paddles right along on the surface. In fact, he has nearly kicked a hole in his bathinette." The child's nurse confirms this feat of heredity.

Does this mean Benjie will challenge other Hollywood tots, such as the James Masons' Portland, who paddled about the family pool at six months?

"No," says Esther. "I don't believe in tossing babies into pools and letting them swim underwater. I don't know what the water might do their sinuses and other respiratory areas."

Two of the late Theodore Dreiser's most famous works are in the movie mill.

Montgomery Clift and Elizabeth Taylor are making "An American Tragedy" (now called "A Place in the Sun") for George Stevens. And Stevens' partner, Pilliam Wyler, will start "Sister Carrie" this winter.

★

Watch out, Frankie and Perry! Robert Mitchum is invading your field. When he finishes "Carriage Entrance," he'll make an album of popular songs with his sister Carol, who is singing at a local cafe. Mitchum has already made an album of folk songs.

Maurice Chevalier may finally return to the American screen. Producer Arthur Freed is readying "An American In Paris" and will submit the script to the French star.

Betty Hutton hit MGM like a whirlwind. On the day she reported for "Annie Get Your Gun," she found the place too staid for her taste. "What's all this 'Miss Hutton' business?" she shouted. "Nobody ever calls me anything but Betty."

On the second day she shouted at the workers in the rafters, "Blast it, when I do something good, I want to hear some noise up there." When she finished her "Doin' What Comes Naturally" number, the applause was deafening. "That's more like it," she said.

June Allyson and Dick Powell were discussing the latest Hollywood scandals. "Hollywood today is like a Presbyterian church compared to what it was 20 or 30 years ago," said Dick.

House, Senate Agree on Farm Plan, Adjournment Nearing

Long-Range Supports Approved

Action Ends Long Deadlock

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Senate-House conferees Tuesday removed the last big legislative obstacle to congressional adjournment, possibly today or Thursday.

They compromised their differences on a long-range farm bill after being deadlocked for five days on the politically important issue.

Both houses have to act now on the compromise, which includes parts of the original Senate and House bills. The compromise calls for continuing for one more year the present rigid 90 per cent of parity price supports on basic crops—as voted by the House.

Then, supports will range from 80 to 90 per cent for one year, with the Senate's 75 to 90 per cent flexible program going into effect in 1953.

Leaders believed that other last-minute legislation, such as minimum wages, appropriations and government pay raise bills, can be disposed of rapidly.

But there cropped up a possible new stumbling block to quick adjournment — President Truman's nomination of Mon C. Wallgren to the Federal Power commission, replacing Leland Olds whose reappointment was rejected by the Senate last week.

Wallgren's nomination and that of former Sen. James M. Mead, D., N. Y., to the Federal Trade commission were sent to the Senate yesterday morning. They were approved promptly by the Senate commerce committee.

But Sen. Harry P. Cain, R., Wash., hinted that he might fight Wallgren's nomination when it comes up in the Senate. Cain led the long and bitter fight which finally forced Mr. Truman earlier in the year to withdraw his previous nomination of Wallgren to be chairman of the National Security Resources board.

Danish Nun Wins Carnegie Medal For Saving Children

COPENHAGEN — (AP) — For the first time in its history, the Carnegie foundation will award a special gold medal instead of its usual rewards for heroism.

The gold medal has been made to honor a Danish nun, who is not permitted to accept gifts of money.

In March 1945 the nun, 45-year-old Sister Edith, saved the lives of 75 children trapped under the burning and flooded ruins of a Catholic school in Copenhagen and 97 children were killed.

The school was bombed by mistake by the British Royal Air Force during an otherwise successful attack on the "Shell House," the Gestapo headquarters in Denmark. Eleven nuns

The catastrophe took place when the leading Mosquito bomber in the second attack wave was hit by anti-aircraft fire and crashed on the roof of the school. The following planes mistook the scene of the disaster for the target and let go their bomb loads on top of the leader's plane.

House OK's Pay Boosts

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The House Monday passed bills raising the pay of 1,385,000 federal workers a total of $239,000,000 a year.

By voice vote, the House adopted conference reports on pay raises for all civil service and postoffice workers. The two groups cover practically all permanent federal employes.

The bills now go to the Senate for final congressional action.

The pay raises affect 885,000 civil service workers who will get a total of $124,000,000 in extra pay. The raises averaged $140 a year for this group, and the biggest raise was $290 a year.

Postal raises affect 500,000 employes, including some postmasters, and give them an average increase of $120 a year. Total cost of the postal raises is $115,000,000.

Join Cooperative

County Agent C. N. McGrew announced the names of three new members of the North Central Egg and Poultry cooperative in New Washington yesterday. The new members are Leo L. Berry, Lucas, R. D. 1; Edward Cooke, Shelby, R. D. 3; Mrs. Joseph Ferrell, Bellville, R. D. 2.

Tennessee's oldest incorporated town, Jonesboro, was incorporated in 1779 but still has a population of slightly less than 1,000, according to the latest census.

Rotary Hears Preyer Speak In Behalf of Manager Plan

The proposed Council-Manager plan of government, if passed, will take the government out of politics to a great degree, Al Preyer, president of the Citizen's Committee, sponsors of the plan, told Rotary members yesterday.

Speaking at their noon luncheon meeting, Preyer explained the plan and its advantages to members.

"Although many specific problems relating directly to Mansfield cannot be answered until the charter commission, if elected, completes its survey, a general picture can be given," he explained.

Under the plan, a professional city administrator or manager will be hired to run the affairs of the city, subject to the approval of a city council elected by the citizens of Mansfield, Preyer said.

Having the endorsement of one labor union and expecting the approval of another, the plan could eliminate the office of mayor. It will also get a "greater return on the dollar spent," Preyer said. More than 900 communities have the system with only 30 having rejected it, he added.

Preyer read off the names of the 15 Citizen's Committee-backed candidates, who, if elected, will draw up Mansfield's council-manager charter to be presented to the voters upon completion. If approved, the plan will go into effect in 1952.

He was introduced by program chairman Millard Pryor.

Key To European Peace Is Franco-German Pact

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

BONN, Germany—This is an interesting time to revisit Germany. But I am leaving it with the feeling that I have seen only the first quarter of an hour of the opening act of a tremendous drama in which the fate of Europe is at issue.

The theme of the drama is whether the rise of Germany as a principal power is to pacify and unify the continent or to plunge it into unimaginable disorder. No one can now, I am sure, predict the outcome.

For the outcome will be determined by the interaction of the six governments — two German and the four occupying governments, all of whom now exercise an important, though none exercises a decisive, authority in Germany.

But if one cannot predict the outcome of this unprecedented fragmentation of German power, one can I think say that the drama can have, not of course that it will have, a tolerably happy ending.

Having come from Paris to Bonn, I have an impression—to speak conservatively—that a Franco-German understanding, which is without doubt the key to a European settlement, may be possible.

The Adenauer government at Bonn is not only disposed to move in that direction but it is, I believe, compelled to move in that direction if it is not to collapse and to be destroyed by the dark forces which are, of course, still latent and potentially powerful in Germany.

Dr. Adenauer is a man of consequence. He is not a political hack nor a relic of the past age nor, I believe, an adventurer and demagogue. He has a strong will, and imposing personal authority, and exceptional experience in German internal politics. He is shrewd and commonly as known, "The Fox." Obviously the question is what general lines of action his experiences and his shrewdness are leading him toward.

I cannot, of course, quote what he said in the talks I had with him and with certain of his principal advisers. But the questions I put to them were the hardest questions. They were the questions which everybody thinks about and no one in a responsible post feels free to speak about publicly.

There is, I believe, ground for concluding that the purposes which his government professes — namely that Germany's future is in a European system founded initially on a Franco-German settlement—are not a pretense but are genuine.

This Bonn government is deeply committed against the effort to achieve national self sufficiency and against the whole apparatus of national collectivism planning, central governmental management, rationing, regimentation, and bilateral governmental trading arrangements.

Germany could, of course, be driven back into such a regime by the failure of world economic reconstruction. But in that case this government would give way to a very different one.

The survival and the hopes of this government compel it to press energetically, towards an open international economy in which Germany can prosper but in which Germany would be dependent—both in time of peace and in time of war—on markets and supplies which are not under political control.

Better Phone Service Seen

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A bill to expand telephone service in rural areas was past the final congressional hurdle today.

The Senate sent the measure to the White House yesterday after approving changes which represented a compromise with the House.

The bill provides financing for new and expanding phone systems along the lines of the rural electrification administration loans. The 30-year loans would not be limited in size, and would carry two and one-half per cent interest. Preference would go to existing phone companies and cooperative groups.

Fighter Crashes

TOLEDO — (AP) — Air Force pilot identified by Coroner Paul Hohly as First Lt. Walter Burnside jr., 24, of Floral Park, N. Y., was killed yesterday when his F-51 fighter plane crashed in a field in the northern end of the city.

Pay Boost Bill Awaits Signature

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Legislating pay boosts to 1,385,000 government workers awaited President Truman's signature today.

The Senate put the matter up to Mr. Truman yesterday by approving two measures calling for an outlay of $239,000,000 a year to raise the salaries of 885,000 civil service workers and 500,000 postoffice employes. Both bills were compromises between Senate and House bills passed earlier.

The average modern house uses from 7500 to 10,000 board feet of lumber.

Says Labor 'Pampered'

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — NLRB General Counsel Robert N. Denham said Tuesday that labor opposes the Taft-Hartley act because it has been "pampered and spoiled by political influences and governmental favor."

Denham, whose post with the National Labor Relations board was created by Taft-Hartley, made clear that he considers the law a good one—just as the Wagner act was a good law, he said, when it was passed.

"As it turned out," Denham said, "the application of the Wagner act, its reception by the labor organizations and its abuse by such organizations, encouraged by the administration given to it, very well could have led us to the most disastrous results."

The consequence, Denham said, was the Taft-Hartley act—"a piece of legislation which, if properly administered with a view to accomplishing the greatest good for the greatest number, can, I thihk do more to bring about industrial peace than any other legislation we have ever had."

VICTIM BOOTS BANDITS

MINNEAPOLIS — (UP) — When a bandit tried to hold up cab driver Gene Kendrick, he made a mistake. Keddrick kicked the man in the face and sent him scurrying down the street.

Baby Near Death, Fund Aids Fight

WACO, Tex. — (UP) — Baylor university students chipped in nickles and dimes today to pay hospital expenses for the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Franks, both war veterans attending school under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

The baby, 15-months-old Eddie Wayne Franks, was near death in an oxygen tent, the victim of abdominal cancer.

"His case is completely out of our hands," said his mother, Anna Ruth Franks. "It will truly be an act of God if he gets well.

The parents' fellow students at Baylor were determined that the boy should have every possible means of treatment.

They threw small change and when they could afford it, dollar bills into a fund to pay medical expenses for Eddie.

New Indonesian Crisis Looming

WASHINGTON — (AP) — State department officials were cautiously optimistic today that a threatened new crisis in Indonesia will pass without a fresh flareup of violence.

Secretary Acheson and his advisers have been worried over reports indicating that fighting might be renewed between the Indonesians and Dutch, with a breakdown of the United Nations cease-fire agreement. Latest information raised their hopes that the threat would blow over.

M'Gregor Rips SEC Fallacies

Plans Speeches On Double Taxation

Congressman J. Harry McGregor told the Association Press in Washington today he is going to "expose the fallacies" in the Federal Security agency's explanation of the handling of the Social Security trust fund for old age insurance in a series of 19 Ohio speeches.

McGregor said he plans a series of 19 speeches in Ohio "to wake up the people to the fact that the trust fund doesn't contain a dime—it contains the government's IOU's."

"The government," McGregor said, "collects the Social Security taxes for old age insurance, spends the money for anything it pleases, puts a corresponding sum of federal securities into the old age insurance trust fund, and goes deeper and deeper int· debt."

That's not how the federal security agency explains it, but McGregor said his speeches will "expose the fallacies in their arguments."

The SEC long has contended that it would be folly just to collect the Social Security dollars and let them lie idle, not earning interest. So it invests them in the soundest securities it knows, government securities, the SEC tells critics, and the interest helps the fund to grow.

"That," says McGregor, "sound fine. But let's look at it more closely. Those securities are just like an IOU in this case. It's a clever device to get more money to spend for purposes that Congress would never approve, and it amounts to a concealed system of double taxation."

"When the taxpayer's insurance matures and he becomes entitled to start drawing a pension," the congressman argues, "the money has to come from somewhere. It isn't in the fund, but the taxpayer gets his pension anyway, because its paid to him from taxes levied for other purposes. So the man has been taxes two ways.

McGregor said Ohio keeps its teachers retirement funds "in separate accounts, which can't be raided."

WARREN — (AP) — Three United Electrical Worker union members were free on bond today after being fined and sentenced for contempt of court in the Taylor-Winfield corporation strike here.

Slavs, Finns Given Loans

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The World bank announced Tuesday it is lending a total of $5,000,000 to Yugoslavia and to Finland.

Yugoslavia will get $2,700,000 and Finland $2,300,000. The loans are to increase output of timber for western European countries.

These loans by the world bank in which the United States is a heavy investor, follow steps by this government to bolster Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito in his defiance of Russia.

The U. S. government recently loaned some $20,000,000 to Yugoslavia and authorized the export of equipment for a $3,000,000 steel mill to be constructed by Tito.

Reports have reached the state department that Soviet satellite nations, with Russian backing, are planning a guerrilla campaign against Yugoslavia like the communist war on Greece.

However, officials said today these reports are unsupported by firm evidence. They added that circulation of the rumors might be part of a soviet war of nerves against Tito's regime.

Red Example Sets Pattern For Balkans

BERLIN — (UP) — The new communist East German state won recognition from Bulgaria and Hungary Tuesday and announced conclusion of a one-year $8,000,000 trade pact with Finland.

The Soviet zone communist newspaper Neues Deutschland said Finland, by signing the pact, had granted the East German state de-facto recognition. Hungary and Bulgaria formally announced recognition of the new state. Russia did so last week-end.

"It may be safely assumed that other nations will follow the Soviet example," said Neues Deutschland.

Japan—Four Years After:

Tokyo Rebuilding Is Tribute To Japs

By CLARK LEE

TOKYO —(INS) — The first striking realization on a quick trip to Tokyo is that the world's third largest city once again has a roof over its collective head.

Four years ago it was, except for the undamaged modern buildings downtown, a succession of vast empty spaces burned out by B-29 fire raids. Now these spaces are filled, even though one-story shanty-like structures have replaced the factories of the Tokyo-Yokohama industrial area.

The new buildings are neither elaborate nor substantial, being mostly of wood with tin or wooden roofs.

There were no funds for redesigning, beautifying or modernizing the destroyed capital, and it remains what it essentially always has been — a sprawling collection of villages over hundreds of years, lacking the cohesiveness of a real city.

Even so, the reconstruction is a tribute to the industry and energy of the Japanese who move about the streets on foot, in buses and trolleys in a spirit of bustle and aggressive activity.

Western clothes predominate. The young girls are neat in new look length dresses, and the babies seem adequately clothed and well fed. Kimonos and getas (wooden clogs) are increasingly rare sights.

Baseball, once a sport played by a relative few, has become a national passion. Games are in progress in every vacant lot, and so great is the enthusiasm that office workers even don uniforms for a noon-time workout.

Greater Tokyo's population is now climbing toward 7,000,000 from a wartime low of about 3,000,000 during the worst fire raids. Office workers travel as much as four hours daily to commute from suburban districts. The city proper now houses nearly 5,000,000, jammed into small sleeping areas where communicable diseases are difficult to check despite precautions by occupation health authorities.

Tokyo's shops seem stocked with articles of all kinds, from poor quality wooden matches in the Ginza sidewalk stands to a fabulous $40,000 gold screen on display in the Imperial hotel.

American cars are on sale (though not to the Japanese) in a fine new showroom near the American embassy.

Tokyo's night life, crowded into a few narrow streets of the Nishi Ginza district, is loud, garish and dull. Beer bars, once dimly lighted spots designed for quiet conversation, blaze with lights and blare with music— a samba, rhumba and tango interspersed with Japanese torch songs.

The girls in the clubs, still not quite accustomed to western dress but moving with professional sureness from customer to customer, all speak faltering English and occasionally a group will self-consciously sing a number like "London Bridge is Falling Down."

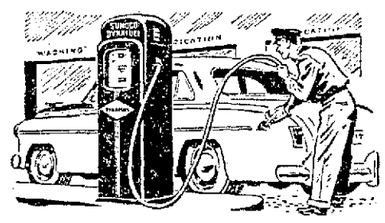
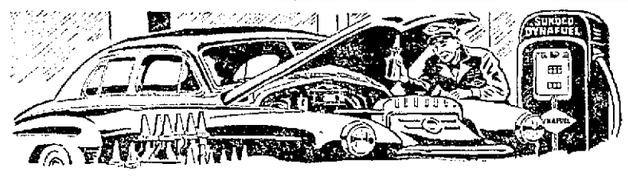
Do you really know your Sunoco Dealer?

SURE, you know he's the man at the Sunoco Station—the friend you count on for good service day and night . . . but maybe you don't know all that it takes to make this possible. His work, his money and his future are in his business. He's one of over 6,500 men who choose to sell Sunoco Products over all others.

1 HE owns his own business and in 7 out of 10 cases, the station is his. If he rents from us, the rate he pays is in line with the rent other merchants in his community pay . . . and the type of facilities he operates. But whether he rents or owns his station, he uses his own money to stock it with the gasoline, oil, accessories and tools he needs to take care of your car.



2 HE has a definite responsibility to serve you and your neighbors. We strongly believe that a good dealer is a community asset and within a reasonable area he is our sole distributor. If you think his hours are long, so does he. But that's the business he's in—service to you from early morning to late at night.



3 HE sells what we both believe is the finest high test gasoline on the highways. He also sells the motor oils that research and road tests prove work best for all driving. And, to satisfy all kinds of demands and pocketbooks, we package these oils in a variety of containers to fit the motorists' needs.

Our dealer contract does not prohibit the sale of competitive gasolines and motor oils. But, feeling that it is not possible for a dealer to endorse two competing items with equal enthusiasm, we have made it our policy to select those dealers who are enthusiastic about our products.

4 HE fully realizes the advantages to himself and his customers of every Sunoco station offering the same lines of accessories and generally elects to buy these items from us rather than from other sources. We offer him a complete line of nationally advertised and competitively priced tires, batteries and accessories best fitted to meet your driving needs. But our contract does not prohibit his handling lines of his own choosing.

5 HE decides what hours to keep his station open, how many men he needs to do it and the pricing of merchandise so as to be competitive and give you what you want when you want it. We often make joint surveys to help him arrive at these decisions.

6 HE has found you like to do business at attractive stations where there are courteous attendants. He keeps his men in neat uniforms and sees that his place is clean and his service up-to-date.

THE mutual interests of you the customer, the dealer and ourselves are closely related. Without him, you would not be able to get modern Sunoco products and services for your car. Without both of you, we couldn't do business.

Mansfield Rated First Real Test for Tigers

Massillon On Road To 2nd Grid Crown

The speedily improving Mansfield Senior high school football squad will have a grand opportunity to blow the Ohio schoolboy ratings apart Friday night when they collide with the powerful Massillon Washington team in Massillon.

Washington high is rated as the greatest thing in Ohio scholastic football with Mansfield only a few notches behind. Experts throughout the state have tagged this as THE GAME of the season.

Both teams have fine offensives, on the ground and in the air. However, Massillon has a very definite edge in the scoring department. Massillon has been held under 40 points only once while Mansfield has been over that figure only once.

Coach Chuck Mather, who seems bent on taking Massillon to its second state championship in as many years, feels that Mansfield is the first real test for his team. Mansfield, Toledo Waite and Canton McKinley are touted as the strongest teams on the Washington high schedule.

The Washington coach is laying special plans to stop the Tygers' veteran backfield duo, Little Tommy Tucker and Big A. C. Jenkins. Tucker has been the best Tyger ball carrier with 583 yards in five games while Jenkins is one of the state's top scorers with 60 markers.

Tucker is enjoying his greatest year with the pigskin, having gained 384 yards as a sophomore and 573 last year. At this time last year, Tucker had 363 yards but ran into a stout defense and was held to 15 yards by Massillon.

Jenkins had his best "day" of the season against Massillon in 1948 when he rambled 118 yards. So far this season, the big senior has raced 442 yards.

Tucker is second in scoring with 37 points while Lanky Ed Demyan is the No. 1 pass catcher with 14 catches. Don Cline's passing last week took another jump when he hit on eight of 14. Cline has now completed 28 of 59 tosses for 330 yards.

CRABLE IS LEADER

Irvin Crable, the ace Massillon ball carrier, scored three times against Alliance last week to pass Jenkins in the scoring department. Crable now has 11 touchdowns for 66 points. Jenkins was held scoreless by Euclid but played only about a quarter.

Dick Jacob is the second leading Tiger scorer with 48 points while Clarence Johnson, the big fellow who wrecked Mansfield last year, has 45. Tackle Jerry Krisher has kicked placements after 26 of the 36 Massillon touchdowns while Johnson has booted three.

Augie Morningstar, Mansfield coach, said today that the Tygers were going through routine drills for the game Friday but that the Bengals were showing plenty of spirit in the sessions.

All Tyger practices this week are of the secret variety.

Meyer To Retire As TCU Mentor, Says Columnist

DALLAS — (AP) — Dallas news columnist Charles Burton said today all plans have been made for Dutch Meyer to retire voluntarily as Texas Christian university's football coach.

Burton said in his column, "the inside story":

"Othol (Abe) Martin, a successful high school mentor before joining Meyer's staff, is due to become TCU's new head coach.

"Meyer was persuaded with considerable difficulty to coach the horned frogs this season. He himself has given so many broad hints that this is his last season that it is commonly accepted in inner circles of the southwest conference that Meyer won't be at TCU next autumn. He won't say yes or no on the question when asked directly.

"There has long been a hope among some horned frog supporters that when, and if, Dutch decided to quit, the great Sam Baugh would return to his alma mater as its coach. But it looks as if old Sam will go on forever with the Washington Redskins."

College Football Squads On Big Touchdown Binge

NEW YORK—(AP)— College football is on a point-a-minute binge, but leading coaches disagreed today on what is responsible for the astronomical scoring trend.

"It's the platoon system," chorused one group of mentors, including Ivy Williamson of Wisconsin, Matty Bell of S. M. U., Jess Neely of Rice and J. V. Sikes of Kansas.

"The platoon system has nothing to do with it," argued others, such as Earl Blaik of Army, Henry Frnka of Tulane and Biggie Munn of Michigan State.

Most of them agreed in an Associated Press survey that the sport has become definitely "offense minded," that coaches make no special effort to roll up impressive tallies and that the liberal substitution rule plays a bit part in keeping the scoreboard busy.

They traced the assembly line point-making also to "eager beaver" substitutes who, thrown into a game to open the gates to mercy, close the gates instead with a hungry effort to make good.

Recently college scores have followed the pattern of the pros, reaching basketball proportions.

"We're getting ten or twelve more plays a game now," said Sikes, whose Kansas team was mauled by Oklahoma Saturday 48-26. "I think the two platoon system is a contributing factor."

Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson attributed the scoring rise to intricate offensive maneuvers and added: "A defense cannot adequately cope with all formations."

Notre Dame's Frank Leahy, whose Irish walloped Tulane 46-7, said he never believed in running up a big score and always threw in the subs after building up a lead.

"On the other hand," he added, "reserves play hard to become regulars and they can't be told not to run, block or tackle. Against Tulane we used 54 boys, threw one pass after the first half and the regulars

Harriers Battle For Loop Title

First champion of the infant Ohio Scholastic conference will be decided Saturday morning when athletes of four league schools collide in a cross-country meet over the state championship Coolridge course.

Harriers from Canton McKinley, Warren Harding, Toledo Waite and Mansfield Senior high school will battle over the two-mile course starting at 11 a m The other league schools—Massillon Washington and Alliance—do not have cross country and naturally cannot compete.

Once-beaten McKinley rules as the favorite, although any of the competing squads has another strength to cop the league championship. Mansfield has lost only twice in six meets this season.

Seven runners from each school will race Saturday with the first five runners across the finish line to count in the point column.

The Mansfield team will be chosen in time trials which were scheduled for this afternoon over the rolling Coolridge course Coach Harry Mehock had 12 thinclads competing for places in the OSC meet.

★

The meet scheduled yesterday between the Tygers and Dayton Dunbar was cancelled when the Dayton school was unable to get transportation. The league meet is the only competition Senior high will have this week.

Sox Verdict Is Due Today

CHICAGO — (UP) — Anxious Jack Onslow, who wants to know whether or not he'll manage the Chicago White Sox again in 1950, was due to hear the verdict today from a two-man jury which was out deliberating most of the night.

Vice president Charlie Comiskey of the White Sox and general manager Frank Lane burned the midnight oil last night deciding whether or not Onslow will serve out the last year of his two-year contract next season.

Their decision will be announced today. If Onslow stays, that's all there is to it. But if he is fired, he will have to be paid off for the 1950 season.

Junior High Teams In Title Tilt Preview

A preview of next Wednesday's traditional John Simpson-Johnny Appleseed football game will be held tonight at Arlin field when the two teams face different opponents in a gridiron double-header.

Johnny Appleseed, winner of 11 straight games, and undefeated, untied, and unscored upon this year, will meet the Madison reserves in the first game, scheduled to get under way at 7 p m Simpson is to meet the Bellville seconds at 8 30. Both games will go 10-minute quarters.

In previous games, Appleseed has beaten Bellville, 27-0, and Simpson downed Madison, 20-6, so scores of tonight's games may be used for comparison of the two squads.

Simpson Coach Bob Kennedy revealed his starting line last night as: Hugh Steele and Tim Miller at ends, Clarence Gouge and Danny Szirak at tackles, Ronald Pataky and Dick Guy at guards, Bill Means at center, and Paul Jaynes, W. B. Jones, Jim Schafer and Benny Carbetta in the backfield. Jaynes, the quarterback, will see only limited action because of a leg injury.

Leading Jock On Sidelines

NEW YORK — (AP) — A fractured collar bone could cost Gordon Glisson, darling of the $2 bettor, a chance to be the leading jockey of the 1949 season.

The 19-year-old Winnsboro, S. C., rider received the injury yesterday when he was thrown from the horse Marine Compo during a race.

Glisson had just booted home Isidore Bieber's Aim to run his number of winners to 249 for the year.

Steve Brooks, contract rider for Calumet farm, is second leading rider this season with 203 winners.

Cincy Reds To Get Manager In Week

CINCINNATI — (AP) — A manager for the Cincinnati Reds will be named within a week, Warren C. Giles, head of the club, said today.

"I really haven't a manager yet," he told newsmen. "I'm working on two men and expect to close the deal in a week. I don't want to mention the names of the two, as the one we select may think he is a second choice."

Ashland Band Will Play At Rangers' Tilt

The 40-piece Ashland American Legion band will entertain at half-time ceremonies at the Mansfield Rangers - Massillon Ohio Football league game Sunday at Stadium field.

The Ashland outfit is one of the oldest Legion bands in this part of the state and was second in Class B competition in Ohio in 1947.

Featuring the act this year is Joel Rader, the 12-year old baton exhibitionist who led the All-Ohio band at Columbus during the past summer. John Them, drum major of the Mansfield Senior high band in 1939, '40, and '41 is the head drum major and is assisted by his wife, Bette Jane Them and Bonnie Cherp of Bellville.

TOUGH CONTEST

The game itself will present the toughest competition the Rangers have met, and Coach Jim Lymper is holding long nightly practice session in preparation.

The Rangers will hold two-hour sessions every night this week at The Richland Driving Range on West Fourth street road. Only light contact work is being done to avoid any more injuries.

Four team members are unlikely to see any service Sunday, Lymper said. Bill Yosick, Al Schwaner, Harold Luckie and Jim Burrage all are missing the week's drills because of injuries.
